MINNIE PALMER	MY SWEETHEART
MINNIE PALMER	MY SWEETHEART
MINNIE PALMER	MY SWEETHEART

RECEIVED A PERFECT OVATION.
MINNIE PALMER
can be likened to no one else. She excels in all the best qualities of other artists, and possesses in a beautiful degree special characteristics of her own which can never be imitated. In the language of the London Daily Telegraph, she is one of those eccentricities which can be compared to no one but herself. She suggests all kinds of fancies. She is a butterfly, a sunbeam. In a word, MINNIE PALMER is original.
MINNIE PALMER
is an individuality rare and pure. To coarse or stilted minds M. P. has no meaning.
"What would the fragrance of a violet be, amid the odours of a crowded bar-room! But to those who like sweetness and light, and to whom the laughter of children is ever delicious music, M.P. will always appeal irresistibly."—J. C. Freund, Art Critic.

There are over 40 events on the programme.

In fact, the committee have done everything in their power to make this gathering a success, and it is hoped the public will continue their support and favour us with a good attendance on New Year's Day.

If continued, it only enables the Highland Society to return the compliment to our fellow-citizens by lending a helping hand to many persons in distress. The Society has during the last three years disbursed no less than £728 to families, widows, and other persons who may have needed a helping hand.

This statement can be verified by an examination of the books of the Society.

Though it is a Highland Society, its membership is open to English, Irish, Scotch, and Australians, and its disbursements are made irrespective of creed or country.

ONE OF THE CHEAPEST PLACES OF AMUSEMENT on NEW YEAR'S DAY is at the HIGHLAND GATHERING SPORTS.

A SPLENDID BAND has been engaged, and by the kind permission of the Officers, the NAVAL VOLUNTEER ARTILLERY BAND will perform Selections of Music during the day, at the HIGHLAND GATHERING SPORTS.

BOROUGH OF GRANVILLE.

PETITION FOR DIVISION INTO WARDS.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, directs the publication, in accordance with the Municipalities Act of 1867, of the substance and prayer of a Petition presented by the Council of the Borough of Granville, under Clause 16 section of the above-cited Act, representing that the population of that municipality is now over 1000, and praying for the division of the municipality into three wards.
GEORGE R. DIBBS.

The petitioners state that the population of the municipality exceeds 2000, and that they are desirous that the municipality may be divided into three Wards, with the following boundaries:—

THE NORTH WARD.

The North Ward commences at the intersection of the centre of the Great Western Railway Line with the south-eastern boundary of the borough of Parramatta, as proclaimed 27th November, 1861; and bounded thence by part of that boundary north-easterly to the confluence of Clay Cliff Creek with the Parramatta River; thence by the river downwards to the confluence of the Duck River; thence by that river upwards to its intersection by a line along the centre of Sydney-road; thence by a line along centre of that road bearing westerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Great Western Railway; and thence by the centre of the said Great Western Railway northwesterly, to the point of commencement.

THE EAST WARD.

The East Ward commences at the intersection of the centre of the Sydney-road with the Duck River; thence by that river upwards to its intersection by a line along centre of Chisholm-road; thence by a line along centre of that road bearing westerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Blaxcell-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing northerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Guildford-road; thence by a line along centre of that road bearing westerly to its intersection by a line along centre of High-street, thence by a line along centre of that street bearing northerly to its intersection with a line along centre of Louis-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing easterly to its intersection by a line along centre of Railway-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing northerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Railway-parade; thence by a line along centre of that parade bearing easterly to its intersection by a line along centre of Good-street, crossing Railway line by over-bridge; thence by a line along centre of Good-street bearing northerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Sydney-road; and thence by a line along centre of that road bearing easterly to the point of commencement.

THE WEST WARD.

The West Ward commences at the intersection of the centre of Railway Parade with a line along centre of Railway-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing southerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Louis-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing westerly to its intersection by a line along centre of High-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing southerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Guildford-road; thence by a line along centre of that road bearing westerly to the centre of the Great Southern Railway line, which forms the eastern boundary of the Municipal District of Prospect and Sherwood, proclaimed 5th July, 1872; thence by the centre of that railway northerly to its junction with the centre of the Great Western Railway aforesaid at Granville railway station; thence by the centre of the Great Western Railway line north-westerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Sydney-road; thence by a line along centre of that road bearing easterly to its intersection by a line along centre of God-street; thence by a line along centre of that street bearing southerly to its intersection by a line along centre of Railway Parade, crossing railway by over-bridge; and thence by a line along centre of Railway Parade bearing south-easterly, to the point of commencement.
Wherefore your petitioners pray your Excellency to perform what seems the Municipalities Act of 1867 requires to be done by the Executive authority in such case, and to proclaim in the Gazette that the Borough of Granville shall in future be divided into three wards, as above, and be governed by nine Aldermen.
And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

CITIZENS LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, LIMITED.
CAPITAL ... £200,000.
20,000 Shares of £10 each.
The business of the Company will be to popularise Industrial Life Assurance, and to carry it to the homes of the working classes by issuing policies for small amounts and receiving the premiums thereon each week.
To raise a sufficient proprietary capital (£200,000), to be an ample guarantee of stability to the assured, and thus create that confidence essential to success in life assurance business.
The rates charged will be similar to those charged by the leading industrial offices of England, and, by a due regard to economy and prudent selection of lives, the operations of the company will allow a fair margin of profit to shareholders. As soon as £120,000 of the capital is subscribed, the share list will close. After issues of capital will be as authorised by the Directors for the time being on such terms as they approve. Early steps will be taken to extend the business of the Company to the principal centres of population in the neighbouring colonies.
The promoters of this Company have arranged with the Directors of the City Mutual Life Assurance Society, Limited, for the purchase of the Industrial Branch of their business, and as it has been a carefully built up business, with a premium income good on their books of over £10,000 a year, this Company will have the great advantage of being able to avail itself of a well-trained staff and carefully-selected business to start with. All shareholders will come in on equal terms.
No commission or brokerage fees to be paid to anyone, and no advantage is to accrue to promoters, except such as will be common to all shareholders.
Five Shillings per share to be paid on application. Ample notice will be given of further calls.
Applications for shares to be made to the undersigned, who will be glad to supply any information in his power.

AS YOU LIKE IT.

"Ay, marry, now unmuzzle your wisdom."—ROSALIND.

There is one aspect of the controversy now raging about customs duties on imports which is not without encouragement. Protection on one side, free trade on the other, will probably in the next Parliament compel our representatives to range themselves. Party government has always been more or less a very hollow thing with us, because there have been no fixed standards to rally round. We have had a good deal too much of personal government for many years, and the little relief from personal government lately experienced was only in the nature of a shift from personal to impersonal, and the shift has not been a success by any means. The next change from personal to party government will be grateful to large numbers of thinking sufferers who have become rather fatigued with their experiences of Premierships. Protection and free-trade—having now pretty well exhausted the patience of the readers of newspapers—may begin the real campaign in Parliament as soon as the champions are ready. If it were only practicable what a blessing it would be if the interested champions on either side could be challenged as we challenge jurors, "for cause," and if the atmosphere could thus be purified of all pocket influence. But, as in "reforming" our land laws we had to put up with the squatters' direct voting, and some free selectors' indirect voting, so I suppose in the "reformation" of our Customs system we shall have to put up with the man whose vote means dear rope, buggies, machinery, boots, and even hay and corn, as with the man whose vote means cheap slops, cheap food and fodder, and cheap material for manufacturers. "There's money in it," whichever way the vote goes; and that means that money will have its usual effect on the political needle. Perhaps some of us will be able to supply ourselves with appropriate deviation cards before the voting comes off. In the meantime, it is cheering to get a glimpse of Parliamentary government on intelligible party lines, and this prospect is afforded by the struggle in which the Protectionists are now fairly embarked.

* * * * *

And as that struggle concerns not only the combatants but the entire community, it should be a principal article in the unwritten code of rules which ought to govern the debates that no speaker be allowed to discharge a statistical argument at his opponent without having first thoroughly verified the figures, and, after verification, convinced himself that the conditions of the country yielding the figures resemble those of this colony somewhat more closely than China resembles Egypt, or India the Argentine provinces. Figures, some wisecre once said, never lie. That is exactly the head and front of their offending, in my judgment. If they lied, we could convict them of the crime, and thrust them out of sight forthwith. But it is the people using the figures who, if they don't actually lie, tell much less than the whole truth, and often tell something that is much more than the truth. And the figures which never lie become the cause of much lying—and, worse still, of those half-caste untruths which are sometimes far more mischievous than full-blooded lies. Then there is that terribly seductive fallacy, the post-ergo-propter argument. Let no debater who desires to stand well in the estimation of his fellows venture to put forward this flimsiest of appeals to the untrained intelligences of his hearers. His first serious offence will certainly be followed by the prick of Ithuriel's spear, and perhaps of Zephon's too; and people will think no more of that pricked debater than of a collapsed soap-bubble. For my part, I don't care how soon the business of the fight begins; and if the obligation to begin is with the side which has to ply the labouring oar, the affirmative of the issue, "Should Customs duties be increased to foster native industries?" should introduce as soon to something better worth listening to than the monotone maundering of last session. If we are to have protective duties pure and simple, let not our protective legislators add to the shame of enduring the fiscal burden the humiliation of knowing that their nauseous platitudes did the business. Protection has a higher note, let us hope, than any struck by its rope-walk or hay and corn advocates last session.

* * * * *

Dignities and dignity are matters which, even in a democratic society like ours, have to be seriously taken account of. The first concerns those who have done or think they have done some service to the State, and take care to let all the world know it. The second concerns those who are conscious of the possession of certain attributes which, without the imposition of any protective duties, separate them from the common folk. Dignities ought to be the visible sign of dignity, but they are so very rarely. Dignity means worthiness—in the opinion of the person in question and his worthiness in the opinion of the people about him. These are often perfectly incommensurate quantities. Now, though this topic is nearly as old as the everlasting hills, yet only a few weeks ago there happened a curious demonstration of it in a House which exists for the purpose of showing society its types of Light and Leading (and shall we also say Breeding?). The occasion was a dinner party, to which were invited all who were available or accessible in the various ranks which compose Phillipopolitan society. In the reception-room, next the dining-hall, were accumulated, without gradation or precedence, a number of invited guests, and among them quite fortuitously disposed were a Judge and a public official. At the summons to enter the banquet chamber, these two found themselves in the position of—official first, Judge next. There was a chance that the official would enter first. The Judge's blood curdled at the prospect, but he caught the official with his hand, and hissed out these words in his ear, "Stay, let me enter first." The official thus rebuked instantly gave way to the gentleman whose dinner would have been spoilt by this shocking inversion of the proprieties, and the Judge made his progress to the dinner table according to the decent order of things. Dignity, therefore, it would seem, has sometimes to be asserted, and asserted rather vehemently. In this case, you see, it was the dignity of a man paid £ x a year by the public, as against the dignity of a man paid only £ x n by the same public. The "dignity" was therefore nearly as three to one in favour of the Judge, and the forgetfulness of the official with the lower salary amounted, I think, to something very much like contempt of court.

"My Sweetheart" is described as being "now in the fifth year of uninterrupted success." It seems to me that the performance shows just those faults which result from a very long run. The points which the actress has made she expects to make again: she lays herself out for them; and she ends by exaggerating them—and exaggeration is apt to produce the effect of vulgarity. Yet the performance must have been charming when it was fresh. Miss Palmer has grace; and if she did not try to fascinate too much, she would be very fascinating. Not that her endeavour is of the irritating kind. It seems to me to be the honest endeavour of one who wants to do her best for the part, and does just a little too much. And then I am disappointed with the piece. The story is so very, very slight, although there was good material. There is plenty of room for a picture of the man who is in love with two women at once, as, I regret to state, ladies, that he can perfectly well be. Not many writers have recognised the fact fully. Thackeray did; but Thackeray had dived deeper into man's nature than anyone except Shakespeare. But still the piece is well worth seeing. Not only the principal, but several of the subordinate players, demand praise—all, in fact, save one whom I will not name, because it is so unpleasant to find fault. You will soon see for yourselves. And that prevents me from naming the others, for which I am sorry, because it is pleasant to speak well. As I said, the piece is worth seeing. There is plenty of smart dialogue, and cheerfulness generally. No strong passion; nothing more painful than the least little prick in the finger. But you must go to it in fairly frivolous frame of mind; not seriously—not in the least degree critically—and at all events you will get a change from the ordinary kind of entertainment; and if you are more hilarious than myself, you will follow the example of the rest of the audience, and laugh.

If Mr. Lyaught's constituents round about the Illawarra Hills are like their representative in Parliament, they must be a delightfully solemn and puzzle-headed lot. The list of things and men in Parliament Mr. Lyaught approved of, and of things and men he disapproved of, is really one of the most humorous achievements ever reported. He would support some protective duties, but not to 25 per cent.; but was a free-trader. Would pay 10 per cent. more for colonial manufactures than for imported; favoured a tax on absentees; and an elective Upper House, the present members of which he looked upon as "fossils and obstructionists;" would amend the licensing laws, but not up to full local option. Could'nt bear Mr. Dibbs once, but had got quite used to him now, and indeed looked upon him as the ablest man in the Ministry. Measures, not men, was his watchword, and Mr. Dibbs was probably nearest his yard-measure than any other member of the Ministry. He supported a land and income tax which touched the wealthy, but not the poor, man; and so on through the regular hustings courses. Even the very "fossils and abstructionists" of the Council would have been found voting deliriously with the majority when Mr. Lyaught was made the majestic recipient of the usual expression of confidence.

THE AUSTRALIAN IN AUSTRALIA.

OVER OLD GROUND.

II.

That quarter of the city which is contiguous to Dawes Point has greatly degenerated in social standing since the days when I first knew it. It used to be a neighbourhood breathing a distinct odour of gentility, and some of our oldest colonial families had their dwellings hereabouts. But those are dead or fled, their children having built themselves more lordly palace-houses in other more fashionable quarters, and this district is now delivered over to that humble, but often very worthy, stratum of society, whose exact place in the scheme of things is perhaps most accurately gauged by their economy of space, manifest in their back windows which are at once drying-yards and flower gardens.

Lower George-street has changed but little. There is much the same half-maritime, half-Mongolian flavour about it, the same delightful aroma of "sou'westers" and tarpaulins glistering in the hot sunshine, and fifth-rate Chinese tea warehouses, cabinet-makers' shops, and joss-houses. The trail of the Chinee is over it all, as of yore, and the first whiff of the place brought the familiar old scene back to me with the mysterious swiftness which odours exercise in reviving old memories. Perhaps the quarter has hardly quite the same maritime "long-shore" feel about it as it once had. Architecturally it has improved somewhat, stone-fronted, plate-window buildings replacing a number of the little dingy old shanties, which, stuffed full as they were with seamen's gear and accoutrements, and the strange and picturesque spoil of the islands, looked for all the world like a skipper's cabin that had been lifted bodily from between decks, and were redolent of the brine and the "sighing seaman's chest."

Following George-street's devious course, an "old boy" will probably turn up King-street, a thoroughfare which recalls a throng of old theatrical recollections; for the pit entrance to the present Theatre Royal stands, I take it, on the same spot as did the pit entrance to the old "Prince of Wales," a "descensus inferni" which many "old boys" who now rarely take their seats anywhere but in the dress circle or stalls must have made scores of times. The writer's own first introduction to a theatre was, as far as I can recollect, at the old "Vic," in Pitt-street, now vanished as a site for a theatre. I can perfectly recollect the two plays I witnessed on that occasion, though I cannot recall the name of a single actor or actress who took part in them. The mere personality of the performers was probably a matter of very slight moment to me then, though I presently became curious enough, and by way of critical, on this point. The two pieces were the farce "Lola Montez in Bavaria," and a musical burlesque "The Pilgrim of Love," both, I suppose, long since vanished into the ghostly limbo of lost dramas. It was a curious old temple of the sock and buskin, the Sydney Victoria Theatre, of a bye-past style in regard to its interior arrangement, the like of which is not now to be found, I imagine, anywhere in Australia. But in provincial English towns you may still drop upon these ancient theatres, with their dim and dingy old "boxes" each a deep and dusky pit hiding the occupants from their immediate neighbours, and as favourable places to sleep in, when the performances failed to interest, unobserved and undisturbed, as were the old-time high-backed church pews, which have also ceased to afford their friendly and innocent screen to drowsy worshippers.

In regard to dramatical affairs I am not very careful to pronounce here whether we have progressed or retrograded in Australia. I fancy that every now and then we get a piece placed on the stage with a degree of completeness and general excellence, in respect both of acting and scenic accuracy, which was rarely or never reached in the days when the writer's playgoing began; but, on the other hand, I doubt very much if the class of dramas which now chiefly appeal for popular patronage are of the same uniform standard of dramatic and literary merit as they were then, or if the public taste is as acute, as fresh, and as discriminating.* But this, though an enticing, is much too large a question to discuss here at the tail of an article, and I should in any case offer any opinion with extreme diffidence. There are scores of old theatrical habitués still among us who were ripe critics when the writer was yet a boy, and who can speak to this question out of an experience to which I can lay no claim. Still there is one branch of dramatic and musical art in which the decadence has been so conspicuous that insistence on it is superfluous—the retrogression is admitted on all sides. I refer to legitimate opera. Once we had an opera, and a regularly recurring opera season, now we have none. We have enough and to give away of opera bouffe, but opera bouffe is not opera, even though it be run into such pretty moulds as the "Mikado" and "Rip Van Winkle." These pleasant musical comedies, though never so competently delivered, cannot make up for the loss of real opera. Opera bouffe is to the legitimate Thespian drama what a prosperous and rather vulgar bourgeoisie is to the ancien regime; "La Fille de Madame Angot" and "Pinafore" are to "Don Juan" and "I Puritani" what the last drawing-room ballad is to "Adelaida," or what "Box and Box" is to "King Lear." If I am wrong in this matter, as is highly probable, and if the sort of musical drama we are now so abundantly treated to be as good a musical education, or so calculated to store up lasting memories in the heart as were the old favourites which we now so rarely hear in Australia—or indeed anywhere—I shall be very glad to learn of learned men, and to be convinced of my delusion, for I trust that I am neither so old as to be obstinate, nor so young as to be impertinent.

That we used to have opera most competently and agreeably rendered is, I think, undeniable, for there were plenty of experts among us in those days, whose judgment in these matters was matured and unerring. And for those of us whose enjoyment of opera was grounded on no great technical knowledge, but merely on the average musical sensibility, operagoing used to be a source of unmixed pleasure.

Who can forget Madame Lucy Escott in "Lucrezia Borgia," a born lyric artiste, whose impassioned declamation, unerring dramatic instinct, and mastery of histrionic resources were equalled by her thorough scientific knowledge and artistic vocal method. Miss Georgia Hodson, when in the meridian of her powers, was a delightful actress and singer, and the piquante vivacity of her Maffeo Orsini in the same opera, the arch aplomb and airy grace with which she used to render "Il segretto" must linger in the recollection of many an old playgoer. With these ladies were associated such competent artists as Squires, Wharton, Farquharson, and others, forming a company capable of treating the severest operatic music, and in whose hands no performance ever fell absolutely flat and profitless. Lyster's first opera company was followed by a second, of which Signora Baratti and Signora Ugo Devoti and Dondi were the mainstays, and whose performances were equally successful and enjoyable. Other clever and accomplished ladies and gentlemen were contemporaries or immediate followers of those, whom there is no space here to particularise, but whose names will at once occur to the reader. Perhaps—or is it too much to hope—when opera bouffe shall have run its course, and the public shall have ceased to be content with farcical extravaganza, in which pert grisettes are the heroines and the humour is the badinage of the boulevards, set to airs which, as some one says in "Frou-Frou," the audience can whistle on its way home, we may reinstate Mozart, and Meyerbeer, Donizetti, and Rossini.

But is it possible that this imagined superiority of the old days is merely the glamour that gilds the past, for memory is a medium, an enchanted prism, in which all things appear glorified, transfigured, and the large enjoyment which we then derived from theatre-going generally, was it simply due to the fresher zest of youth and its less critical standpoint? Some discount may be granted on this score, but not much. For I do not suppose there is one man or woman who reads these lines but could listen to a tolerable performance of "Don Giovanni," or the "Marriage of Figaro," or "Faust," or "Norma," with as keen a relish as they did when in their teens, or who would hesitate an instant if permitted to choose between any one of them, or a score of others which one never has a chance of hearing now-a-days, and the brightest handiworks of Messrs. Sullivan and Planquette, Offenbach, and Hervé. The time test is, here as elsewhere, an almost unerring one. We can listen now to the lovely flowing melody of "Don Juan" and "Il Pisuto Magico," to the splendid choruses of the "Hugenots," and to the glaring and picturesque music of Verdi, who, in spite of his occasional florid phrasing and specious glitter, is full of dramatic colour and verve, with an enjoyment only second—though second, of course, longo intervallo—to the delight of the "Moonlight Sonata," or the Lieds ohne Worte, or Schubert's "Farewell;" but who can hearken with any show of patience to the trivial prettinesses of last year's comic opera? The lilting ballads of "Pinafore," the Caff chantant music of Offenbach now strain one's equanimity almost as much as the trio of troubadours over the way who are "see-sawing" last season's waltz on two crazy fiddles and a rheumatic harp. In the eyes of the high priests of music, every form of opera, except, perhaps, the Wagnerian, is an abomination, and Mr. Haweis ("Music and Morals") sums it up as the "brilliant bathos of art." Nevertheless, among people so natively unmusical as we English, it is probable that opera built upon the Italian lines will keep its place upon the lyric stage for some time to come; but what is certainly to be deplored is that so inferior a form as opera bouffe should so long maintain its ascendency almost unchallenged; and is it not an incredible thing, not to say discreditable, that with a population twice as large as in the days of which I have been speaking, and with greater increased facilities for securing vocal and instrumental talent, we should have descended upon a distinctly lower level of popular opera, inferior as a musical educator, inferior as a stimulant to the imagination, and measurably inferior in such ethical value as the lyric drama does or may possess. With whom the blame rests—whether with Australian audiences or Australian impresarios, I know not.

The site of the old Prince of Wales Theatre is suggestive of a crowd of theatrical memories, some of which I hoped to have space to touch on—and still hope to on some future day—memories dating back to the time when one went to the play at half price. How long was that ago, my Postumus—the days when we were entitled to see the play at half price? Ten years, or twenty, or thirty? What does it matter? There are times when one's boyhood looks like yesterday, and at other times far back in the misty beginnings of time. Did you ever feel, dear reader, as if you were a thousand years old? I am sure you have. As if your childhood lay far away in another age and world, it seems, in a land of dreams, the shadowy enchanted "land of long ago." It is a curious feeling.

* Since these lines were written we have had a revival of Shakespeare in Sydney which has proved so successful, and a young Australian lady has given such gratifying promise of ultimate eminence in Shakespearian drama, that I feel almost inclined to take back these words.

THE LITTLE RIFT WITHIN THE LUTE

Lord Beaconsfield, in the Holland House days before he gave up long locks and light literature for diplomatic fame and domestic happiness, said "that as there were no marriages in heaven, so neither was there any heaven in any marriages." It may be a hard saying, but nevertheless it is true that a thoroughly sincere and good-natured man seldom makes a brilliant wit, and perhaps this is one of the reasons why wits from time immemorial have been fond of suggesting that good nature and poverty of humour always go together. It looks like a kind of justification for their attacks upon social customs, whether good or evil, and as the supply of legitimate subjects for repartee is seldom sufficient to afford that constant practice which is essential to neatness of execution, they are frequently driven to operate on the most sacred topics. When Benjamin Disraeli made this cynical remark upon matrimony, he was a professional jester striving for pre-eminence among a coterie of practised wits, and although the public and private career of the great Conservative Premier was a practical protest against the value of this early epigram, it does not divest the bon mot of much of its bitter truth. There is, unfortunately, very little Heaven in many marriages, and in not a few cases the failure of men and women to make one another contented and happy does not necessarily arise from either husband or wife neglecting to fulfil to the letter the most sacred contract which humanity can enter upon. What it does demonstrate is that they, while probably keeping the strict letter which perishes, neglect the spirit which must animate two souls, or there is no true union.

Boccaccio, in painting the most fearful horrors of the famous plague of Florence, could find no horror equalling that involved in the nearly universal abandonment of the malady-stricken husbands by the terror-stricken wives. The thinkers of the 19th century can in their turn find no sadder state of things to reflect on than the semi-attached, gradually-growing indifferent condition of an infinite number of young married people. There is not in the nuptial tie some fatal germ which strikes with sterility the most generous disposition and almost invariably makes of an institution of love and peace one of hate and suffering. There is no cause—no fatal germ—save only selfish husbands and silly wives. But everyone, even in Sydney, where men and women lead a far happier, if less cultured, existence than is common in crowded European capitals, must have observed that there is no small proportion of unhappy homes and wasted married lives. The manhood of man rests on the womanhood of woman, but few women and still fewer men know the responsibility which lies upon them from their mutual relation of dependence. So lives that might have been as sweet as perfume and as pure as prayer, drift apart not from any inherent or grave fault of temperament, or striking sin of commission, but from little sins of omission on the part of both parties concerned, and from want of consideration and forethought on one side and lack of tenderness and wisdom on the other. It is not the essentials of life that cause discunion, but the trifles, and it is such epigrams as Lord Beaconsfield's, or rather the state of thought which produces them, and the temper of the times which appreciates them, that cause

"The little rift within the lute,
Which by and by will make the music mute,
And, opening wider, slowly silence all."

In the golden days of all ages, when men realised that the law of true life is sacrifice, they looked for God's embodiment of it in humanity, and found the highest ideal in womanhood. When men felt that utilitarianism and materialism were not all their existence, they searched for a proof of this in humanity, and found it in womanhood. When men begin to think that perhaps love and faith and tenderness and gentleness are as strong for good as power and force and intellect they ask for a sign of this in humanity, and they have seen it, and will see it for ever and for ever, shining radiantly upon the fair face of some devoted woman. For in proportion as men are noble and true of heart, in proportion as they feel deeply (and the highest are those who feel deepest), do they understand women; but in its entirety the soul of a woman is an unread book, the whole pages of which a man may never turn. It has been suggested, and in no spirit of sham criticism, that a woman wants to be understood before she speaks, and that a man seldom understands her properly after she has spoken. Men find in men, and women in women, similar chords of greater or less intensity of sound and effect, but of the same kind. They cannot, however, be what they may without each other, for love, and love alone, discovers those sweeter chords beyond the compass of their own respective instruments to produce, but possessing the key to happiness and beauty. The heart of womanhood and the soul of manhood lies far down below the surface of society, and no words, like a plummet, can sound the depth of either, while only the tenderest sympathy and the most sincere devotion can even faintly hope to mutually aid one another in making their paths pleasant and their way peaceful. Yet men and women allow the selfishness of society to sap their sympathies, time to dull the keen edge of their affection, and familiarity not to increase love and respect, but to breed contempt and satiety. The greed of gain grinds out the good seed, and the social deterioration goes on until the man and the woman disappear, and the waxen figures grow beneath the rapid fingers of convention. Instead of two people making their life into one perfect whole, each has worked the other's ruin. Their union, instead of producing the sheltered and sequestered nook in the wilderness of earth, where the tired spirit could find a holy epitome of all that is bright and beautiful, has destroyed two lives. They have contributed their best to destroy the pure essence of each other's nature, because both have lacked tenderness and forethought and consideration, because neither understood that self-sacrifice is the salt of existence.

The quiescence and security of the conjugal relation which is never stirred by the tidal wave of passion, although favourable to the manifestation of rare intellectual gifts by persons who have already attained a high standard of culture, is not of a nature to foster a passion sufficient to rouse all the faculties to aid in winning or retaining its beloved object. Marriage is contradistinction to union will, as now understood, never convert indolence into activity, indifference into ardent zeal, and dulness into perspicuity. The monotony of modern life has been made to bear the brunt of this unhappy state of things, and has been a constant source of complaint among those who live in it. For the real subject of complaint there is no doubt some reason; but it is doubtful whether the name applied to that subject is a correct one. There is, in truth, a good deal more variety in these days of constant improvement and invention than there was in the days before them, when both invention and improvement were slow, and by no means always sure. It should naturally follow from the increased variety and power of thought that domestic life would yield more profit and more pleasure. Cultivation is ever on the increase, and the union of educated people should tend to bring women into more intelligent sympathy with man, and to heighten and complicate their earnest share in the world's drama. This, however, does not appear to be the case, and the fact is that it is not the monotonous nature of modern life which causes a want of sympathy among married people, but the tendency of modern as of ancient people to be monotonous, because they fail to cultivate earnestness, sincerity, and self-sacrifice. There is a wonderful inclination in human nature to follow sheep-like through the gap which chance or idiosyncrasy, or a combination of both, has led one of them to make. It has been the custom of common-place people to consider marriage as a purely pecuniary matter, and to regard woman either as a toy to be played with or a useful servant to be utilised. Early in the days of Martial down to the very present the fool's sneer and the satires of disappointed lovers have been levelled at woman's vanity, her love of dress and luxury, and her preference for outward beauty to inward excellence. Even in the Odyssey we have evident proof of the very subordinate position held by women in that early and semi-barbarous era. If the position of Penelope was that of all her sex, making allowance for difference in rank, it appears evident that a wife then was a mere useful piece of domestic furniture. Her influence was nothing more than that of a respectable housekeeper. Spinning and darning stockings was her dignity, and entire subservience to the caprice or suspicions of her lord her duty. But to-day such a state of things is impossible. Women have more self-respect and self-knowledge, and the little rift within the lute is often caused by men refusing to recognise their true place and value in the social problem. It is quite true that women who wish to be guided by womanly instinct must place themselves under the guidance of men; but they only become superior by being admitted to the common fund of ideas, to common objects of interest with men, and this must be ever the essential condition at once of true womanly culture, of real manly dignity, and of perfect social well-being.

There may be and probably is a class of girl who considers that love, except when confined to her younger sisters at school, and carried on by means of clandestine notes at the pastrycook's, is merely a sentiment preserved for the benefit of drawing-room comedies, and for words to which Sir Arthur Sullivan can set music. Fortunately they are in Sydney the exception. A girl more often makes the mistake in another direction, and forms a hero out of a very ordinary clod; but sometimes she has power enough to find in her clod something really heroic, as the sculptor sees his statue hidden in his block of marble. Whatever frivolity of conduct and lightness of mind might be supposed to be characteristic of Sydney girls at the present time can be correctly attributed to the example of men working on the substratum of a faulty education. For when men conceive and cherish a false and low idea of their own humanity they will proclaim and teach a false and low standard of womanhood, and women then become what they are held to be. As we have suggested, a woman's soul is a partially sealed book, for a certain amount of psychological difference arises out of difference of sex, and, instead of being destined to vanish before a complete development of woman's intellectual and moral nature, will be a permanent source of variety and beauty as long as the tender light and dewy freshness of the morning affect us differently from the strength and brilliancy of the midday sun. The true lover can find no greater happiness than in making the days of the woman he loves sweet and pure and pleasant. Earth holds for him no more pregnant misery than a sense of failure. If the young husbands and the young lovers would devote the same patience and perseverance to the promotion of their womankind's happiness which they now devote to billiards and business and boating, we should see more happy homes, fewer disunited couples. If men, in fact, were not so anxious to transform the domestic angel into the angelic domestic, and were as courteous and considerate to those they have sworn to love and honour as they are polite and politic to promiscuous friends, the lute would have no rift, and naught save the sweetest music would be heard.

The comparative physical weakness of woman, which can never be cancelled, introduces a distinctly feminine condition into the wondrous chemistry of the affections and sentiments which inevitably gives rise to distinctive forms and combinations, and under every imaginable social conditions a woman will necessarily have sensations and emotions which must must remain unknown to man. But love and tenderness will unlock a woman's heart, and men and women have to live out their existences when pleasures pall and old age creeping on dims the sight and deadens the memory. Let men and women marry certainly, even on small means, for the union of two people is the most certain to possess some happiness when they are dependent upon each other for their daily bread. The autumn of a cynical bachelor, or the winter of a single woman uncheered by love, sans eyes, sans teeth, sans taste, sans everything, is a sorry spectacle. Far better is the fate of those who, having loved not wisely but too well, for the sake of one woman never know what it is to have a fond wife nestling in their heart—never return to any but a lonely hearth—never see the old, quiet, peaceful home—dream of their early manhood realised. They at least have had and been true to the one romance the memory of which outweighs the pain of after days. But the happiest lot is that of people whom grey hairs have made only more beautiful, happy with themselves, and living over again in their children and their children's children. There, however, have been unions in which the rift in the lute has never been felt so. It would be well for the weal of the community were all sorts and conditions of men and women to realise the sacred obligations of marriage. Let us in Sydney endeavour to have those unions of soul and mind which alone can blend all the hues of thought and feeling in one lovely rainbow of promise for the harvest of human happiness.

The peace party at St. Petersburg (observes an English contemporary) is doing its best to hasten the departure of the Czar and Czarina for the south of France. Once quietly established at the delightfully-situated Villa Derwies, which has been secured for the Imperial visitors, and is one of the most charming of the detached residences of the Promenade des Anglais, with extensive grounds, it is hoped that his Majesty will hear less and think less about Bulgarian affairs. The greatest precautions are to be taken to guard the Czar at Nice, and a host of workmen are already engaged in making the Villa Derwies strategically capable of complete environment and defence.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA'S JUBILEE.

(Advertiser, December 27.)

To-day witnesses the close of the fiftieth year of the existence of South Australia as a colony of the British Empire, and the occasion is to be appropriately marked by what promises to be one of the most interesting gatherings ever held in the province. We refer of course to the old colonist demonstration in the Town Hall this evening. The idea of assembling as many as possible of the early pioneers and old colonists for social intercourse, and of collecting relics and mementoes that might serve to revive memories of the past, was a most happy one, and has been taken up with such spirit that the success of this unique celebration is assured. To-morrow will be claimed by Glenelg as its own peculiar jubilee day; and doubtless large numbers of people will make a pilgrimage to the scene of the proclamation of the colony 50 years ago, and will take a kindly look at the historic old gum tree, or what remains of it. It is not a mere idle sentiment that prompts these and other celebrations of the colony's jubilee. The memory of many of the earliest of South Australia's colonists deserves to be kept green; for the character they maintained and the work they did, and the record of their manly struggle with difficulties and discouragements; their faith in the country of which they took possession, and their gradual but steady conquest of all obstacles to the establishment of a permanent and prosperous community, may well serve to point a moral that needs to be impressed on the minds of their more fortunately-situated successors of the present day. Few indeed of the active workers of those days of the colony's infancy remain with us still; though some, who were the boys and girls of that time, by their graphic stories of the earliest settlers and their doings, aid us to realise the primitive experiences of the South Australian colonists. To recall to memory the life and labours of those brave and enterprising men should do more than merely excite a momentary interest, or call forth a studied encomium. It should, by stimulating to activity and encouraging to confidence, distinctly affect the character and prospects of the South Australia of to-day.

It is only when a comprehensive view of the condition of the colony is taken—a view such as is naturally suggested by the occurrence of its jubilee—that a proper estimate can be formed of the really marvellous progress that has been made. A microscopic investigation of the discouragements of the passing hour is liable to mislead, just as an exaggerated opinion of the degree and permanency of the prosperity of three or four years ago did actually mislead. The test of a series of years is the only reliable test, and the longer the series the more reliable the test. South Australia has, like other countries, witnessed great variations of fortune, as anyone who reads the reminiscences which we publish elsewhere will perceive; but on the whole her history has been a history of steady progress. Checks that have occurred have been only momentary, and have been counterbalanced by the exceptional prosperity experienced at some other stages of the history. It is worth while for any one who is disposed to be despondent about the colony to consider the growth of population to upwards of 300,000 persons within the period of 50 years, and to glance at the work done in stocking a vast area of the country and bringing hundreds of thousands of acres of land under cultivation, in intersecting the country with magnificent roadways, and in the conservation of water for the requirements of the population; in the construction of railways, not only connecting principal centres, but opening the way for greater traffic and further aggression on the comparatively unoccupied territory of the colony's immense landed possession; in erecting wharf and jetties and opening ports; and in the establishment of a commerce representing enormous wealth which, notwithstanding any temporary reverse, is growing with amazing rapidity. Viewed by itself all this might well be regarded with great satisfaction, and it is only when a comparison with the still more phenomenal prosperity of one or two neighbouring provinces is instituted that there can even seem to be any reasonable ground for expecting development more rapid. The still more remarkable strides made by these provinces may well stimulate us to greater exertions, and kindle a confidence that would otherwise seem preposterous; but there is after all no real reason to regard our own progress slow because it has not fully kept pace with theirs.

When the present position of South Australia is compared with that of New South Wales, it must not be forgotten that the history of a century is represented by the one and of half a century by the other. When a comparison is made with Victoria, the term of its existence as a distinct colony certainly is briefer than our own, though not of settlement, for Victoria began its history as a part of New South Wales. Till the discovery of gold the advancement of Victoria had scarcely given any ground for expecting the wonderful progress that has since been made. It is perfectly fair, in comparing what has been done in the way of progress in the several colonies, to recollect the extraordinary and wholly exceptional advantage enjoyed by Victoria by reason of the discovery of her rich goldfields, and to refrain from making her development the measure to be applied in estimating what ought to be witnessed elsewhere. At the same time it is neither generous nor fair to discount everything that has been done in Victoria by ascribing it to the lucky chance of her discovery of gold. Recent events, moreover, tend to remind us that it is by no means impossible that other colonies may share with Victoria the advantage of gold deposits to a greater extent than we have been accustomed to suppose. It is as yet an unsolved problem to what degree the new discovery at Teetulpa may rival the richest diggings in the adjoining colony; but already the demonstration that extensive deposits of the precious metal exist within the limits of South Australia has had a distinct influence in improving the confidence felt as to the colony's resources, and in stimulating the efforts to develop them. Experienced miners have often deplored the lack of enterprise in this colony in respect to gold-mining, and it is an article of faith with many such persons that treasures in various districts lie waiting to reward the efforts of those who will make efficient search for them. One effect of what has taken place at Teetulpa is to greatly increase the number of persons who hold that belief. Meanwhile there is much to encourage and gratify the patriotic South Australian. The material progress already made is substantial. And when the political and social institutions of the colony are considered, still greater cause for congratulation must be acknowledged. In the character of her political institutions and the provision for the social and moral well-being of her people South Australia may challenge comparison with all the world. Everything has not of course yet been done that can be done; but when it is remembered that the entire history of the colony is comprised in the short space of 50 years, the achievements that justify us in claiming rank for our political, social, and religious institutions with the foremost countries of Europe, with America, and with other Australian colonies, are such as to make our jubilee celebration an occasion which we may contemplate with pride.

REGISTRATION OF PASSENGERS' NAMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—After reading the accounts of the awful disasters to the Ly-ee-Moon and the Kellawarra and Helen Nicoll, the question forces itself on my mind, How many passengers were there on board whose names were not registered? It has never been known to this day how many were really lost on the Ly-ee-Moon; and on the Kellawarra there is really no certainty. As a fact, there were 12 steerage passengers' names not known. It has been stated there is known 12 saloon passengers that were on board the Kellawarra, but at the same time it is stated there were at least 20 saloon passengers. Being one who has often to travel on the water, I notice there are numbers who either come late, or never think to go to the office and register their names and get their tickets, they pay either on coming on board or else on leaving the steamer.

On nearly all the steamers this occurs. Now, then, if a disaster happens, how can it be ascertained for a certainty who were on board? Suppose any of them were in a life insurance office, would any office pay to the widow and children the amount due to them unless they had exact proof from the ship's register that he was a passenger? Take another view. Supposing a man went on board without registering his name, also not sending information to his wife and family that he was coming, that man would be reported as disappeared, possibly as a runaway husband. There is yet another side to be looked at. Whenever an accident happens we pretty correctly get the names of first and second saloon passengers; the list then finishes with so many in the steerage. Now, I ask the question of all the companies that do an intercolonial trade, is it the usual thing to register steerage passengers' names? I say, "No; it is not done." The question is merely asked, "Saloon, sir?" "Yes." "What name, please?" "So-and-so." The name is registered on a plan, and the ticket passed. Next customer:—"Steerage?" "Yes." Passes a ticket, but does not ask the name. Now, I will also ask the question, are there not some officers who, just previous to the steamer leaving, send the sheet with the registry of names on board, not holding a duplicate of same in the office? Therefore, if this is the case, supposing the steamer foundered, where is the record of the list of passengers? Gone down with them. Of course, on those boats that have long passages to make I am aware they keep a duplicate of the first and second saloon passengers. But do those offices which have boats running on short coasting journeys—do they not send the only record of names aboard? Do they ever register the names of steerage passengers? Is not a steerage passenger's life as valuable as others? Only the other day, in a journey I made to the south coast, after we left the wharf at Sydney I asked the steward to look at the list of passengers. On having it given me I found it contained only four saloon names, including my own. On making inquiries I found there were 22 saloon passengers aboard, besides all the steerage passengers, and the only register of names in this case was four; and even that list taken at the office was placed on board. Now, I ask this, should it not be made compulsory that in all passenger boats that run outside the Heads they should each and all have at their several offices a complete record of every soul that went on board, also prevent anyone—whether he be saloon or steerage passenger—from going on board without having previously bought his ticket and registered his name, the said name not only to be registered on the ship's plan, but also to be registered in a book at the office kept for that purpose. A small office could be erected on the wharf for night work. In the name of right, and in a sense of justice to passengers and to those that belong to them, this should be done. Surely the Marine Board should take this matter up.

THE KIAMA ELECTION.—The following arrangements have been made for the election of a COMMERCIAL RETROSPECT, 1886.

MONETARY REVIEW.

The belief expressed in our last year's review that the money market in 1886 would exhibit a somewhat firmer tone, was fully confirmed by the course of events. In January the drought had already begun to produce disastrous consequences, the fall in the price of wool had made a serious difference in the receipts of the squatters, and the small crops of grain and diminished output of metals, with the reduced values of both, had lessened the income of the agricultural and mining classes. The prospects were by no means cheering. For a time the returns from wool and crops tended to maintain depositors' balances and to restrict overdrafts. But the further depression which took place in the first two series of London wool sales in February and April tended to exhaustion of resources. Reclamations had to be made owing to the losses on wool on which advances had been made. Moreover, the drought continued, and towards the middle of the year the position of affairs had become far from satisfactory, and the outlook gloomy in the extreme. With the squatters and storekeepers heavily indebted, and with the former beginning to seek their annual advances on wool and stock, and the latter unable to get in money from their customers, the banks at the end of June deemed it necessary to raise the deposit rates from 3, 4, and 5 per cent. for 6, 9, and 12 months respectively, at which they had stood since July, 1884, to 4, 5, and 6 per cent. for the periods named. By this movement the banks were enabled to secure additional deposits during the next quarter to the amount of £523,426. Actually, they obtained £848,695 at interest, but the amounts at call fell off by £305,175, so that little more than half a million sterling was left with which to meet the pressing demands for accommodation. The rates for advances were raised 1 per cent. simultaneously with the rise in the deposit quotations, the discounts being fixed at 7 per cent. for three months', 8 per cent. for four months', and 9 per cent. for five months' bills. Notwithstanding the check of dearer money, customers borrowed to an extent in excess of the additional deposits the banks had obtained, as the average advances for the third quarter, amounting to £33,006,000, were £820,146 more than the total in the preceding quarter, or £207,000 more than the increase in the deposits. To whom these advances were made we cannot tell, as the returns give no details. It is generally thought that the amount represents advances to squatters. Storekeepers' balances, it is understood, had been considerably curtailed; inability to pay up overdrafts and obtain additional accommodation having, in fact, been the immediate cause of many of the failures which took place in the second half of the year. Taking the wider view of the financial position shown by the returns of the banks in all the colonies—and it is now fully recognised that it is this which regulates the state of the money market—we find from figures published in the Australasian Insurance and Banking Record that in the third quarter of the year the average deposits amounted to £85,909,382, an increase of £1,884,916 on the figures for the corresponding quarter of 1885. But the advances, amounting to £109,946,659, during the same time increased by £6,144,979; and the coin and bullion, amounting to £14,582,185, exhibited a decrease of £94,492. Notwithstanding the rise in the discount rates, the banks could not check the demand for money, and their offer of higher prices failed to bring them a quarter of what they actually advanced. There was also the slight depreciation of reserves. Consequently the ratio of metallic reserves to liabilities, which, in the third quarter of 1885 was 16·26 per cent., or 3s. 3d. in the £, had fallen to 15·99 per cent., or 3s. 2½d, in the third quarter of this year. Lately there has been a movement among the banks to reduce the rates to the level of last year's figures, from which it may be inferred that there has been some reduction of overdrafts, curtailment of advances, or increase of deposits. Either or all of these conditions, or the anticipation of them at an early date, may have prompted this action. Perhaps on the whole the prospect is now more cheerful than it was last year. The season is decidedly better. The wool clip is larger, and the crops generally superior. The prices of wool and wheat and minerals are pretty much the same as they were 12 months ago, and the prospects can hardly be worse than they were then. Thus it may be fairly augured that, the productive position being larger as to quantity and not less favourable as to price, the colonies, and consequently the banks, ought to get more money next year than they got this, and that therefore they ought to be relieved to some extent. Unfortunately in this colony the people will have to pay half a million to a million more of their earnings in taxes, to be disbursed as soon as earned, and this will limit the supply of surplus wealth that should go to reduce indebtedness to the banks. On the productive side the position is, perhaps, on the whole, more favourable than last year for cheap money. If the local production of capital should be supplemented from abroad—and it is said that English capitalists are sending money here for investment—then that is a favourable element in the position. Therefore, unless there be some excessive demand for capital, or the banks supply the demand more freely, and thus further increase their liabilities, we should imagine that on the whole the outlook is favourable for a slight reduction of bank rates. This, at least, is contemplated, though, so far, two or three of the banks that have most need of money will not agree to reduce the rates, and the others are not willing to make the change without them.

The dearness of money throughout the year has depressed the values of stocks, and its dearness and scarcity have restricted business very considerably. A belief that the rates of money will be reduced at an early date has lately strengthened the values of good dividend-paying stocks. In banks, the closing rates of the year exhibit some slight changes. Commercial are the same value. The proposed increase of capital in the case of the City Bank has within the past few days given a stronger tone to them. The increase of capital in the case of the Bank of New South Wales may be regarded as the cause of the reduction in the value. Reduced dividends in the cases of the Union and New Zealand Banks have lowered the quotations. The Queensland National and Mercantile also close rather weaker. Steam stocks generally have receded. After falling to 10, the sale of the fleet has caused an advance of A. S. N. Company. Except Illawarra and Clarence and Richmond, all steam stocks are lower. In Insurance stocks there has been an advance in the case of Australian General since the capitalisation of a portion of reserves. Pacific having called up 20s. to provide against losses are quoted at the figures name'. United have maintained last year's values, but the stocks of other companies generally are weaker, notwithstanding that the company's reserves are stronger in nearly all cases. Amongst miscellaneous stocks, Castlemaine Brewery and Saywell's Tobacco are dearer, their reports having been favourable. Australian Gaslight are lower, attributable to the state of the money market. Hudson Brothers having paid no dividend, have fallen considerably, and City Carrying, notwithstanding good dividends, have also receded somewhat. Others show very little change. The land and building companies stocks generally are lower, sales of land having generally fallen off, and profits in consequence been reduced. Mining stocks are also cheaper.

The scarcity and dearness of money has checked the disposition to float new companies. The growing requirements of the Bank of New South Wales have caused the issue of additional shares, and about £500,000 has been paid as capital and premium to date, £200,000 to be paid within the next four months. In the Australian Gaslight Company further calls have been made, and £62,500 has been contributed to capital and reserves. The new companies floated during the year are the following:—Swan River Land Company, £20,000; Premier Property and Investment Company, £50,000; George's River Park and Land Investment Company, £150,000; Surface Hill Gold Crushing Company, £24,000; Red Cross Brick Company, Limited, £22,000; Goodsell's Brick Works Company, Limited, £25,000; Land Company of Australasia, £20,000; South Perth Land Company, £21,000; Sydney Mutual Fire Insurance, £250,000; Estate Owners Company, Limited, £250,000; Manly Aquarium Company, £25,000; Fairlight Land, Building, and Investment Company, Limited, £50,000; Carrington Royal Arcade Company, £50,000; Land, Building, and Investment Company of New South Wales, £500,000; Universal Plate Glass Insurance Company, £5000; Mutual Plate Glass Insurance Company of Australia, £25,000; Port Stephens Oyster Company, £13,500; Croydon Steam Brick Company, £5000; North Queensland Insurance Company, £100,000; the Wellington Point (Queensland) Land Company, Limited, £20,000; South Shore Steam Ferry Company, Limited, £5000; Patent Cork Asphaltum Company, £20,000.

The purchase of land has likewise been materially affected by the state of the money market. The total sales reported by the principal property auctioneers amount to about £1,713,000. In 1885, the total was £4,000,000; in 1884, £2,500,000; in 1883, £2,250,000; in 1882, £3,000,000; and in 1881, £4,500,000.

A new loan of £5,500,000 was floated in London in July last, and realised the highest price yet obtained, £95 8s. 2d. The total debt of the colony now stands at £41,100,000.

The following table gives the particulars of loans floated since 1858:—

This table shows the very marked improvement in the credit of the colony. For the 12 years from 1858 to 1870 there was very little advance, although some fluctuations occurred, the average rate being from £5 0s. 3d. per cent., for which £900,000 was paid in 1862, to £312,000 in 1868, which cost the colony £6 2s. 1d. per cent. All these loans were 5 per cent. loans. In 1872 the last of the 5 per cent. loans was raised at an average, less expenses, of £103 18s., or at the rate of £4 15s. per cent. In 1873 and 1874 two interminable 4 per cent. loans were raised in the colony at the actual price of £4 2s. 1d. and £4 5s. 11d. per cent. The first of the 4 per cent. loans in London in 1875 was negotiated at a cost of £4 13s. per cent.; the second, in 1876, at £4 9s. 4d. In 1879 there was a very marked improvement, £3,000,000 being raised at £97 18s. 2d., expenses excluded. In 1881, the next loan, of £2,000,000, was negotiated at £102 17s. 3d. net, equivalent to £3 16s. 10d. per cent. The succeeding three loans were on less favourable terms, and though the next loan, the first of the 3½ per cents., brought higher gross results, the higher charges reduced its value to the colony. The next 3½ per cent. loan was more unfavourable. The gross price of the last loan was equal to about £3 14s. 5d. per cent.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

The year 1886 has been characterised by less activity and prosperity in commercial circles than many preceding years. The small wool clip and crops, and the low range of prices for our pastoral, agricultural, and mining productions have had the effect of limiting the earnings of the producing classes, and in consequence the amount available for circulation throughout the community has necessarily reduced the volume of commerce. Figures published elsewhere show that through Sydney there has been a reduction of about £3,000,000 in the value of the imports. A falling-off of about 16 per cent. in a community which has increased in numbers of about 5 per cent. indicates less purchasing power. At the same time it is to be remembered that the year 1885 closed with very full stocks, due to competition in trade and the eagerness of European manufacturers to find a market. As the stocks in many lines have been considerably reduced, the values of the imports cannot be said to represent the consumption of the two years. If we could supplement values of the present stocks to the level of those at the end of 1885, and purchase the total with the imports of 1885, we should be able to tell more accurately the actual volume of the internal trade and consumption of the colony. This we are not in a position to do; but the falling-off in stocks with Sydney importers is sufficiently well known to show us that we are not justified in assuming a reduction in consumption to the extent indicated by the imports. The character of the trade has been even less satisfactory than its volume. Deeply indebted through inability to obtain payments of their accounts from squatters, and from the natural effects of the excessive credit system of the colony, country storekeepers have been assigning their estates freely throughout the year, and but for the splendid rainfall and the rise in value of wool, the position would have been far more serious. The improved prospects thus opened up encouraged the banks and merchants to continue assistance where otherwise it would have been denied. Nevertheless, there have been many failures. The losses reacted on the wholesale houses and import firms, and about the middle of the year many of them had to call meetings of creditors, the failures having been more numerous than for a long time past. The pressure has since eased considerably; but the storekeepers are still largely indebted to the banks and the merchants, and unless the proceeds of clip and crops enable customers to pay up their accounts more freely, it cannot be said that the financial strain is removed. With squatters and others indebted to storekeepers, with storekeepers indebted to the wholesale and import houses, and with all more or less indebted to the banks, whose advances are quite as large as prudent banking admits of, the new year opens with conditions requiring the exercise of cautious trading. This, indeed, has been the character of trade for months past. Every one recognises that this is not the time to buy nor to sell freely. Storekeepers and merchants have to keep small stocks suited to the reduced trade, and to the inability to obtain the credit to maintain large ones. Until the squatters, who furnish four-fifths of the wealth of the country, earn sufficient to pay off their debts to the banks and to the storekeepers, the trade of the colony, resting largely on credit, cannot be safely conducted on the extravagant scale on which it was stimulated when money was cheap, wool was dear, and the profits of the pastoral industry large. Purchasing and improving areas of land altogether beyond their capacity to pay for except by borrowed money, squatters will have to pay off their debts before they can again give that encouragement to commerce which is given by them when the pastoral industry is flourishing.

The bulk of the business failures do not appear in the official statistics, the estates being dealt with privately. The following disclose the number and amount of insolvencies recorded in the Insolvency Court:—

It will be seen that the increase for the year amounted to £256,714 14s. 11d.

During the year the pioneer steamship of the German Lloyds Company arrived in the colony. The first boat landed her passengers and cargo in Sydney in September. This makes the fourth line of full-powered passenger steamers engaged in the trade between Europe and Sydney, besides the lines by way of Queensland and America.

The collapse of the Australasian Steam Navigation Company was also a marked feature in the commercial history of the colony. After a career of about 30 years, the company through a falling off in trade, and excessive competition with companies having superior fleets, felt itself unable to contend further against a series of adverse influences, and sold its fleet to the Queensland Steam Navigation Company.

The following table shows the principal articles shipped to the colony according to the statistics published by Messrs. Stubbs, Straker, and Co. for the first 10 months of the year, together with the shipments for the corresponding period of 1885:—

—		1885	1886
Drapery ...	£	2,825,160	2,699,200
Rails and General Machinery ...	£	1,080,000	485,300

Slates ...	Tons	6,114	3,954
Apothecaries ...	£	89,500	85,300

It will be seen here that there has been a considerable falling off in the shipments of most articles. Cement, tobacco, and British spirits are amongst the most noticeable exceptions. The British Board of Trade returns show that the exports to Australasia for the first 10 months of the year were as follows:—

—	For Ten Months. 1885.	1886.

In the export trade of the colony we notice that for the year ended 30th June last wool exhibited an increase, as will be seen from the following table, showing the exports in bales from the colonies, and in the years named:—

—	1881-2 Bales.	1882-3 Bales.	1883-4 Bales.	1884-5 Bales.	1885-6 Bales.

	781,528	783,504	845,240	847,693	865,439

From New South Wales there was an increase in the exports amounting to no less than 53,325 bales, but in the case of each of the other colonies there was a decrease; the total increase for the year from all being 17,746 bales. In the past four years the wool export from this colony has increased by 100,000 bales, largely, no doubt, owing to the extensions of the railway having diverted the clip of this colony from shipment via Adelaide and Melbourne.

The following is a return of the principal articles of export from 1st January to 31st December, 1886, together with the totals of the three previous years:—

Kerosene Shale.—3302 tons have been shipped in 1886; 75 tons in 1885; 3199 tons in 1884; 11,699 tons in 1883.

The course of the import markets throughout has been generally in favour of buyers. The year began with large stocks and an indifferent trade—conditions favourable for low prices—and it may be said that this has been the prevailing feature throughout. Still, there has been a marked absence of speculation. The cheapness of some lines of goods, notably of galvanised iron, brought Melbourne buyers into the market, and thus has also helped to improve the position for importers. But, speaking generally, it cannot be said that the year has been a remunerative one for traders. The imposition of ad valorem duties has materially interfered with the re-export trade. We have no official figures, but, as an indication of what has taken place, we may mention that one of the leading firms has not shipped more than one-fourth of the goods shipped to Queensland in 1885. The advantage enjoyed by New South Wales in this intercolonial trade has been neutralised by this duty, which, however, has only had the effect which was predicted by those who were acquainted with the natural operations of customs restrictions on the course of trade. Looking at individual items of merchandise we find that most lines of groceries are quite as cheap and generally cheaper than at the beginning of last year. Local stocks of tea are not excessive; but the quantity in Melbourne is larger. Still, the shipments to date are not more than would have sufficed for requirements during the past two or three years; but whether they will be excessive, in view of the somewhat smaller trade and consumption, remains to be seen. Coffee closes 2d. per lb. higher since the reduction of stocks and advance in the East. Dried fruits have ranged at about last year's prices. Sugar is £1 per ton less than at the beginning of last year, the colonial and the world's production having enlarged. A larger quantity of refined sugar has been sent here from Europe. In brewers' goods there was for a time a somewhat higher price ruling for malt, but stocks have again been supplemented, and the closing price of the year is 6d. to 9d. less than that of last year. In liquids, ale has been steady at about last year's rates. There is no material change in brandy. Rum has receded 3d. to 6d. per gallon, and geneva is also lower, mainly owing to excessive importations. Except sheet lead, which is dearer, most lines of metals have ruled lower than last year. Galvanised iron is £2 per ton lower, and fencing wire £1 per ton. Oils have generally sold in favour of buyers. Linseed and castor are without much change. China has declined, and kerosene is about 1d. per gallon lower. Taking one article with another, the course of the market has generally been in favour of buyers, the year opening with prices generally at a low range.

The breadstuffs market has been about £2 per ton higher than last year. In 1885-6 the crops in all the colonies were light, and it was found before the first half of the year had passed that there had been overshipments. Prices advanced from £10 10s., the quotation for best Adelaide to £12 10s. Any further advance was checked by the knowledge that shipments were available from San Francisco and India. Several thousand tons were imported, and prices in consequence were kept within the limits named for best brands of stone-dressed flour. The price has been maintained with remarkable steadiness for the last four or five months. The new flour is coming to market at a lower price, but there is still no reduction in the value of old flour. The quantity of flour delivered from our country districts during the year has been equal to 1350 bushels in wheat and 410,000 bushels in flour, or a total of 411,500 bushels. In 1885 the quantity was 690,000 bushels; in 1884, 910,000 bushels; in 1883, 930,000 bushels; in 1882, 646,000 bushels; in 1881, 755,000 bushels. This year, moreover, a large quantity of wheat was sent to the country.

A meeting of the Marine Board was held yesterday in connection with the collision between the steamers Kellawarra and Helen Nicoll on December 8. There were present Captain Broomfield, acting president, and Messrs. M'Lean, Robertson, Moodie, Jenkins, and Commander Littdeman, secretary.

The President said that the Board had given the most careful consideration to the case, and had gone over the evidence bit by bit, and had done their utmost to come to a decision, which the secretary would read.

The secretary then read the decision of the Board, which was as follows:—The Board report that the collision was caused by the wrongful act or default of Captain Buttrey, the master of the Kellawarra, for recklessly navigating his vessel by continuing to proceed at full speed after the smoke was reported ahead, and for porting his helm and thereby throwing the Kellawarra across the bows of the Helen Nicoll when he could see no lights and could not possibly tell the direction in which that vessel was proceeding. Although the collision was brought about by the porting of the Kellawarra, the Board are of opinion that Mr. Knowles, the officer of the watch of the Helen Nicoll, was guilty of default, for not stopping his vessel after a light, which had been reported on his starboard bow, became obscured by smoke, and its position could not be ascertained

The E. and A. S.S. Company's steamship Cutterthun arrived in port yesterday morning from Hongkong, via ports, with mails, passengers, and cargo, and was berthed at the company's wharf, Miller's Point. She brings a full list of passengers and a large cargo of Eastern produce for this port and Melbourne. Captain G. W. B. Darke is again in command, and reports that the Cutterthun left Hongkong at 6 a.m. on November 27, and reached Singapore at 10 a.m. on the 2nd ultimo, strong to moderate monsoon, with generally fine weather, prevailing during the passage. Having received a full cargo and a large number of passengers, the voyage was resumed at 8 a.m. on the 5th, and arrived at Port Darwin at 7 p.m. on the 12th. Fine weather and moderate and light winds were experienced during the passage, with the exception of some six or eight hours' heavy rain, thunder, and lightning off Hainan Island on the afternoon of the 8th. At Port Darwin some 500 tons copper ore from the Daly River were shipped, and about 120 returned diggers from Kimberley and 15 saloon and five steerage passengers embarked. A start was made again at 6.45 a.m. on the 15th. On the evening of the 14th an exceptionally heavy thunderstorm occurred, accompanied with torrents of rain, vivid lightning, and tremendous claps of thunder, which appeared to be immediately over the ship. This was the precursor of the rainy season, for from the time of the departure of the Cutterthun from Port Darwin till her arrival at Moreton Bay she met with nothing but exceedingly heavy rains and thick weather, with strong southerly and S.E. winds, which materially delayed the ship's progress both at sea and in port, preventing the discharge of cargo while at anchor. Thursday Island was reached at 11.45 a.m. on the 18th, and left again at 3.30 p.m. on the 20th, Cooktown being reached at 7 p.m. on the 21st. Here a great delay was incurred from there being only one lighter, which was engaged by the H. L. S. N. S.S. Duke of Sutherland, whose cargo had to be discharged before the lightering of the Cutterthun could be commenced. The work was completed at 3.45 p.m. on the 22nd, and the vessel was resumed at once, the vessel arriving at Townsville at 4 p.m. on the 23rd. She left again at 7 a.m. on the 24th, and anchored at Keppel Bay at 3.40 p.m. on the 25th, having experienced heavy and tempestuous rains throughout. Leaving Keppel Bay at 4.30 a.m. on the 26th, the Cutterthun rounded Breaksea Spit same evening, and experienced a fresh southerly gale and head sea, with rain, to Cape Moreton, off which she anchored at 3 p.m. on the 27th. Rain and thick weather prevented the ship from entering the bay until 2.30 a.m. the next day, and she anchored at Brisbane bar at 6 a.m. on the 28th. Here the first fine weather since leaving Port Darwin was met with, and after discharging some 300 tons cargo the Cutterthun left the bar at 4 a.m. on the 29th. Rounded Cape Moreton at 8 a.m., and entered Sydney Heads at 5.10 a.m. on the 31st December, having experienced moderate and light winds and fine weather from Moreton Bay. After being examined by the health officer at Watson's Bay, pratique was granted at 6.30 a.m., and the Cutterthun moored alongside the company's wharf at 7.30 a.m. The passengers who came by the Cutterthun appear to have been thoroughly satisfied with the treatment they received on board from Captain Darke and his officers, and, despite the unpleasant weather, had an enjoyable time on board.

The missionary schooner Dayspring yesterday returned from her usual visit to the New Hebrides, but brings no news of importance. Captain Braithwaite reports that the Dayspring left Sydney on October 18, and arrived at Aneityum on November 1, after a fine weather passage. She sailed again on the 5th for the north, called at all mission stations on the way, and arrived at Ambrym on the 28th. She left again on December 2 for the south, called at the islands of Malekula and Paama, touching at 12 mission stations, and arrived at the harbour of Aneityum on the 20th December. After obtaining a supply of water, she sailed for Sydney at 6 a.m. on the 22nd, and up till noon on the 28th had sailed 1200 miles with a fine easterly breeze. The schooner on that date was off Seal Rocks, and she had light winds and calms, with thick fog, from that time till Thursday night at sundown, when the weather cleared a little. The Dayspring arrived off the Heads on Thursday afternoon, but she was unable to "save daylight," and as there was every appearance of a southerly, which burst over the vessel soon afterwards, the Dayspring was kept away out to sea. The health of the missionaries was good, as was that of the native generally when the Dayspring was among the islands; but the weather was very hot, and a great deal of rain had fallen. The French have removed all their soldiers, with the exception of an officer and 25 men at the two posts from the New Hebrides. This has been done, we believe, owing to the amount of sickness among the men. Captain Cross, of H.M.S. Undine, expected to be in Sydney before Christmas, but he has been delayed owing to the Raven not having arrived in time to relieve him.

A man-of-war passed Richmond Heads at 6.30 a.m. yesterday, bound south. This may be the Diamond, from Townsville.

The E. and A. S.S. Company's steamship Tantallon is to leave the harbour to-morrow morning for Newcastle.

The steamer Wanaliga arrived in port yesterday from Brisbane, whither she had made a passage from New Zealand ports with a freight of produce. She sailed from Brisbane on the 26th ultimo, and had the weather until our yesterday morning, when she encountered a strong southerly, which continued till arrival.

The steamer Flora left Hobart at 5 p.m. on the 28th ultimo, arrived at Eden at 5.30 a.m. on the 30th ultimo, left again at 3.45 the same day, and arrived in port at 7.45 a.m. on the 31st ultimo. Experienced fine clear weather, with moderate sea, to Cape Howe; thence dull hazy weather, with heavy rain and lightning, from Jervis Bay to port.

The steamer Leura crossed the Richmond bar at 11.30 a.m. on the 29th ultimo, and entered the Heads at 2.30 a.m. on the 31st ultimo. Cargo: 1000 sacks sugar, 171 bags maize, 80 hides, 100 kegs butter, 7 cases cheese, 13 coops fowls, 21 cases eggs, 11 bags oysters, 2400 feet sawn timber, and sundries.

Captain Watkins, of the ship Westgate, which arrived at Melbourne on Wednesday from Liverpool, reports that on December 1 he signalled a barque showing the letters H.N.B.D., 56 days out from London, for Canterbury, New Zealand. This would probably be the Mataura, which left London on October 1. The barque reported that she had passed a wreck, with people on board, but could render no assistance. No particulars were given as to the position or prospects of the vessel in distress. There will be forthcoming, no doubt, when the Mataura arrives at Lyttelton.

The steamer Leura cleared Port Phillip Heads at 3 p.m. on the 29th ultimo, and arrived alongside the company's wharf, Sydney, at 2.40 p.m. on the 31st. Experienced strong S.S.E. wind, with dull cloudy weather, from Cape Howe to port. Left Hobart at 5 p.m. on the 28th ultimo, and arrived in port at 7.45 a.m. on the 31st. Experienced fine clear weather, with moderate sea, to Cape Howe; thence dull hazy weather, with heavy rain and lightning, from Jervis Bay to port.

The steamer Tantallon crossed the Richmond bar at 11.30 a.m. on the 29th ultimo, and entered the Heads at 2.30 a.m. on the 31st ultimo. Cargo: 1000 sacks sugar, 171 bags maize, 80 hides, 100 kegs butter, 7 cases cheese, 13 coops fowls, 21 cases eggs, 11 bags oysters, 2400 feet sawn timber, and sundries.

The steamer Leura cleared Port Phillip Heads at 3 p.m. on the 29th ultimo, and arrived alongside the company's wharf, Sydney, at 2.40 p.m. on the 31st. Experienced strong S.S.E. wind, with dull cloudy weather, from Cape Howe to port. Left Hobart at 5 p.m. on the 28th ultimo, and arrived in port at 7.45 a.m. on the 31st. Experienced fine clear weather, with moderate sea, to Cape Howe; thence dull hazy weather, with heavy rain and lightning, from Jervis Bay to port.

H.M.S. Swinger was yesterday taken from Farm Cove to Fitzroy Dock to be overhauled.

Our Ballina correspondent telegraphs that the bar was smooth yesterday, and that the steamer Platypus and the steam-tug Rhea had crossed it.

We are requested to state that the name of Mr. A. C. White was inadvertently omitted from the passenger list of the steamer Kangaroo, which arrived from Melbourne on Thursday.

The Newcastle Steamship Company's steamer Kembla has just been supplied at Mort's Dock, and had her hull painted. She was swung for adjustment of compasses yesterday, and afterwards taken for a trial trip, which was made to the satisfaction of the engineer-surveyor of the Marine Board. The Kembla is to go into commission to-day, being chartered for an excursion to Botany Bay and Sandringham.

The steamer Queen of the South crossed the Manning bar at 10.30 a.m. on the 30th ultimo, and entered Sydney Heads at 5 p.m. on the 31st. Experienced light to fresh N.E. wind and sea to Port Stephens; strong southerly wind and sea, with equally weather, from thence to arrival. Cargo: 1850 sacks maize, 21 hides, 1 coop pigs, 1 case tallow, 8 coops poultry, 3 cases eggs, 3 pigs, 1 keg butter.

A barque passed Richmond Heads at 5 p.m. yesterday, bound south.

The Orient Company's R.M.S. Liguria cleared at the Customs yesterday, and will to-day at 1 p.m. start on her voyage to London, via Melbourne and Adelaide.

A barque passed the port at 2.2 p.m. yesterday, bound south.

A barque passed the Heads yesterday, at 5.3 p.m., bound north.

The ship Earl of Dunraven is to be towed from the A. S. N. Company's Wharf to Mort's Dock on Monday next.

The ship Vallard is to be towed from her berth at the Circular Quay to Mort's Dock on Monday, where she will be cleaned and painted.

The schooner Florida is to be towed from the Victoria Wharf to an anchorage in Neutral Bay on Monday.

"THE STOMACH AND ITS TRIALS."—A lady in London writes as follows, under date April 27, 1886:—"Will you kindly send me the eleventh edition of 'The Stomach and its Trials,' for which I enclose 14 stamps. I may add that the 'Fruit Salt' has proved a very valuable medicine to me. It is the only medicine that has cured very bad headache after suffering for several months." Caution.—Legal rights are protected in every civilised country. Read the following:—"In the Supreme Court of Sydney, New South Wales: an appeal from a decree of Sir W. Manning perpetually restraining the defendant (Hogg) from selling a fraudulent imitation of Eno's Fruit Salt, and giving heavy damages to the plaintiff, has after a most exhaustive trial of two days' duration been unanimously dismissed with costs.—Sydney Morning Herald, November 26. Examine each bottle, and see that the capsule is marked "Eno's Fruit Salt." Prepared only at Eno's Fruit Salt Works, Hatcham, London, S.E., by J. C. Eno's Patent.—[ADVT.]

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY EVENING.

A meeting of shareholders of the A. S. N. Company was held to-day, the object being to pass certain resolutions preliminary to the sale of the company's fleet to the Queensland Steam Navigation Company. We are informed that 11,000 shares were represented, in some cases by the holders and in others by proxy, and that Mr. James Ewan, chairman of the board of directors, occupied the chair. A re-commendation of the directors in favour of the dissolution of the company—this step being necessary to enable the sale of the fleet to take place—was approved of. The shareholders will, however, have another opportunity of considering this recommendation, and should they ratify what was done to-day, the company's fleet will be sold. We are further informed that the employees have received notice to the effect that the term of their service will expire on January 31.

The year has closed with a very marked degree of inactivity, to-day's transactions for the most part being in very small lines. The quotations published a fortnight ago have suffered no material change. The more noteworthy of to-day's sales related to 12 cos. boxes of figs for export at equal to 4s. 6d. duty paid, and Heddle's lime juice cordial at 12s. Sago and tapioca are quoted at 2½d. In teas there is no perceptible improvement. Reporting upon the state of the Foochow market, under date of November 6th, Messrs. Adamson, Bell, and Co. write:—

"There has been a fairly large business since October 23, at prices without any appreciable change, though, in some instances, better value has been procurable in teas between 8 to 10 taels, or say 6½d. to 7½d. per pound, but any slight concession in tael quotations has been equalised by an advance in exchange from 3s. 3½d. to 3s. 4d. for documentary paper on London. Demand has chiefly run upon teas under 7½d. per pound. A string of third crop Kaisows has been settled at an average price of 10 taels (7½d.) per pound, showing good value. Latterly a fair business has resulted in third crop Panyous, from 10 taels to 13½ taels (7½d. to 9d.), which mark a decline from previous quotations. Dusts are in request from Russian buyers, very few being settled for London. It is evident from the policy pursued by some of the largest operators at the present time that one or more sailing vessels will go on the berth for London. The stock of common to good common Congou has been pretty thoroughly picked over, and the unsold supply consists of the least desirable kinds of open-leaf dusty Congous, Souchongs, and low Suey Kuts, &c. Souchongs.—As stocks become less desirable, prices for flavoury descriptions in good condition have advanced fully 1 tael. Teamen are losing from 10 to 15 taels per picul at current quotations. There seems but slight prospect of the export to the Australian colonies exceeding 20 or, at most, 20½ millions, against a total of 22 millions last year. The total direct export to the Australasian colonies (including New Zealand) for the season 1886-7 was 19,075,668lb., as against 21,445,280lb. for 1885-6. The export for the season 1884-5 was 17,803,372lb., and for 1883-4, 13,842,935lb. The rate of freight to the Australasian colonies is £1 per ton of 40 cubic feet. Exchange on London, 4 months' sight, Bank credits 3.".

A fair line of blue slates (Port Madoc) were placed at late rates; and we also hear of the disposal of a builder's line of Baltic lining, besides a small quantity of gospel oak iron, at £17 15s. Sales were also effected of a large line of woolpacks, at 1s. 9d. in bond; and of a small parcel of the same description of goods at 2s. 4d., duty paid. Rock salt moved off at 90s., No. 8 wire at £10, and No. 10 at £11 10s. In liquors, sales are reported of fair lines of Glen Kinchie whisky and Tennent's ale, in each case at agents' quotations.

The Orient Company's R.M.S. Liguria cleared at the Customs to-day for London, via ports, with 4863 ingots (182 tons 9cwt. 1qr. 20lb.) tin, 113 bags (5 tons 6cwt.) ore, 4 packages mohair, 4 bales furskins, 989 cases preserved meats, 726 bales wool, 5 bars silver bullion (£1700), and 18 packages sundries.

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £1835 19s. 2d.; wine (still), £65 13s. 7d.; ditto (sparkling), £18; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £77 19s.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottles), £163 5s. 2d.; tobacco and snuff, £157 10s.; cigars, £332 1s. 9d.; cigarettes, £228 15s.; tea, £18 15s. 9d.; coffee (raw), £28; sugar (unrefined), £269 18s. 2d.; opium, £191; malt, £5 18s. 6d.; hops, £29 10s.; specific duty, £856 19s. 1d.; ad valorem, £707 5s. 10d.; bonded warehouses, 42 Vic., No. 19, £17 10s.; harbour and light rates, £9 5s.; excise on tobacco, £30 2s.; cigars and cigarettes, £7 2s. 6d.; fisheries royalty, £9 1os. Total, £5233 0s. 7d.

STOCK SALES.

Messrs. Macdermott Loughnan, and Scarr report having sold (in conjunction with Messrs. P. C. and A. Glennon) on account of Messrs. J. and W. Christian, 1000 store bullocks, from their Willangi Station, Queensland, for delivery near Moree, New south Wales.—[ADVT.]

in that at a later hour on the 24th he received a telegram from the ACTING-TOWN CLERK informing him that a paper convening the meeting was at Mr. GANNON'S office. Next day he obtained that paper, which purported to bear the MAYOR'S signature. The document had been written by the ACTING-TOWN CLERK without authority and under a mistake; and on the strength of that the advertisement was published. Under the circumstances the MAYOR was justified in his action; but Mr. CURTIS was not. The latter, with direct instructions from the MAYOR in his pocket, had no right to disregard them upon the authority of conflicting information from a third party. He should have known that the paper at Mr. GANNON'S could not have passed the MAYOR'S telegram on the road, and therefore, if it had been signed by the MAYOR, must have been of earlier date. He should have assumed that had the MAYOR changed his mind after sending the caution, he would have communicated with him direct. The cautionary telegram from the MAYOR should have been held authoritative when the question was the use of the MAYOR'S name, at any rate until direct communication had been resorted to for the purpose of clearing up the discrepancy. There was plenty of time for that. But instead of that the advertisement was published either thoughtlessly or with an unwarrantable determination to give the proceedings the benefit of the MAYOR'S name, and to let the owner of it set himself right, if he thought fit, afterwards. The MAYOR has set himself right, and Mr. DANIELS and Mr. CURTIS, upon whom the responsibility for unauthorised action rests, will perhaps learn to use more caution and consideration in such matters in the future. It may be remarked that Mr. CURTIS's description of the ACTING-TOWN CLERK'S telegram published to-day differs from the copy of the telegram published on Thursday last, as above referred to.

We published on Thursday an extract from the British Prisons' Report for 1885-6, which will amply repay perusal. Prison information is, as a rule, anything but attractive reading; but this document is a striking exception. Its figures will be a revelation to those who have been insisting that British society is going headlong to destruction. The comparison between last year's figures and those of a quarter of a century ago must convince the most sceptical that substantial improvement has been made. During the last twenty years the population of England and Wales has increased from 19¼ to 27¼ millions, but the number of sentences to penal servitude has fallen from 2589 in 1857 to 1027 last year. That is to say an increase of nearly 50 per cent. in the population, and a reduction of 61 per cent. in the number of sentences to penal servitude. Satisfactory as this general view of the diminution of serious crimes must be, there is one feature which affords special gratification, and that is the greater percentage of reduction amongst female prisoners. In all the gaols in England and Wales there were only 821 females under sentences of penal servitude at the beginning of this year—a falling off within the last ten years of about 50 per cent. It does not always follow that a reduction in the work of a Government department secures a corresponding reduction of officers and expenditure. But in the case of British gaols this desirable feature is also found. Within the last four years the number of gaol officials has been reduced by 245, or 14 per cent., and within the same period the gross annual expenditure has fallen from £345,632 to £299,876. The report also gives interesting information respecting two elaborate experiments in gaol discipline. Pentonville prison was specially constructed for an experiment in the isolation of prisoners. At first this system was tried for long periods, and was attended with the worst results. After a time the isolated prisoners became enfeebled in mind. But when shorter periods, not extending beyond nine months, were tried, the system was found to serve admirably. The other experiment was the classification of prisoners, so that persons under a first conviction, and not previously identified with the vicious class, might be kept apart from the contaminating influences of hardened criminals. The results of this system, after experiments extending over five years, are certainly encouraging. Some 455 prisoners have already been discharged under it, and so far only one of them has been re-convicted. This report as a whole should be helpful to those who have to deal with prison questions here. Two of the most anxious and most unsatisfactory discussions of last Parliamentary session concerned the necessity for relieving our over-crowded gaols, and providing reformatories for juvenile offenders. In some respects we are differently circumstanced from the older and more fully developed and organised communities of England and Wales. But the principles of prison management and discipline, which underlie the success recorded in this report, must be the right ones for us, however much our differing circumstances may require the application of those principles to be modified here. Amelioration of general morals by educational and religious influences is, perhaps, as earnestly, if not as efficiently laboured for here as in England. We must, therefore, look chiefly to methods for the reformation of juvenile offenders, and for preventing the contaminating influences of hardened criminals, if we are to make up the leeway between our prison figures and those of this report.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

TO-DAY, being a public holiday, the following arrangements will be observed in the mail branch of the General Post Office:—The various offices of that branch will be open from 8.30 till 10 a.m. only, and the 8 a.m. delivery only will be effected by letter-carriers. The country mails, usually despatched in the afternoon and evening, also the coastwise, intercolonial, and foreign mails, will close at 9 a.m. The iron-pillar receivers and receivers at suburban post offices will only be cleared at the first usual hour.

THE departure of the old and the advent of the new year was marked, perhaps, with less demonstration this morning than is usual on such an occasion; but, although the English traditions as to the manner in which the passing year should be turned out and its successor welcomed may not have been very closely followed so far as the general community are concerned, the usual religious ceremonies were observed, and no sooner had midnight struck than the chimes rang out from various churches, and the bells merrily greeted the new year. Between 12 and 1 o'clock very few persons were to be seen in the principal thoroughfares of the city, and discordant bands were fortunately the exception. As might have been expected, however, numbers of people, including not a few of the genus larrikin, wandered round the city and suburbs until the small hours, and disturbed the peace of those who, having quietly seen the new year in, were content to rest

WITH regard to the intended new appointments to the Upper House we are informed that the list of names cannot be ready for publication before Tuesday next. It is probable that on that day the list will be submitted to the Executive Council.

MINISTERS met in Cabinet again yesterday, and sat for several hours, the business under consideration being a revision of the list of magistrates with a view to the issue of a new list containing the new appointments. The work of revising the list occupies a great deal of time, and it will probably again engage the attention of the Cabinet before the revision can be considered complete. It is hoped that the revised list will be ready for the approval of the Executive Council on Tuesday next.

THE inquiry which for several days past has been carried on at the Colonial Secretary's Office into matters connected with the Mount Rennie outrage was continued yesterday before Mr. Dibbs, Mr. Lyne, Mr. Copeland, Dr. Renwick, and Mr. Sutter. Several persons were examined, including some members of the police force.

As will be seen from information published in another column, the Minister for Lands and the Minister for Works have issued notices to the officers in their departments, intimating to them that it is not unlikely that reductions will shortly be made in salaries and allowances, and in the number of persons employed. In the case of the Lands Department, the reduction in the staff will principally affect the draftsmen in the Survey Office, but it will probably extend to the officers employed through the department temporarily. The Minister for Works has caused the notices to be issued not as an intimation that a reduction in all salaries or in the number of officers must of necessity be made, but in order that he may, after fair warning to the officers throughout the department, be able to carry into effect whatever course is, after proper inquiry, found to be desirable. All reductions decided upon will be submitted to the Cabinet for approval.

A LETTER has been received by Mr. W. J. Fergusson, M.L.A., from Mr. W. E. Plunkett, Under-Secretary for Justice, intimating, in reply to a communication received from Mr. Fergusson, dated the 28th ultimo, regarding the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the working of the Supreme Court, that the matter had been engaging the attention of the Minister for Justice, but, in consequence of the death of the late Chief Justice, Sir James Martin, who had been asked to accept the presidency of the commission, unavoidable delay had been caused, and also owing to the difficulty experienced in obtaining the services of the most competent persons to undertake so important an inquiry.

MR. J. B. CARROLL and Mr. Hammond interviewed Mr. Goodchap, Commissioner for Railways, yesterday with reference to one or two matters affecting the welfare of Kogarah and its neighbourhood. In regard to the new Carlton station, Mr. Goodchap gave instructions that the work should be finished without fail within a fortnight. That work includes the erection of weatherboards. In the meantime, he intimated, the gentlemen interested would be expected to take up 40 guaranteed yearly season tickets, and the company owning the land on the Kogarah Bay side of the platform would be expected to complete the transfer to the Government. With regard to the tramway line from Kogarah station to Sans Souci and Sandringham, Mr. Goodchap informed Mr. Carroll and Mr. Hammond that £6000 had been paid over, as required, and that the Government were now only waiting for the gentlemen who had promised the land for the widening of the road to make the necessary transfer. Upon that being done the work will be proceeded with, either by tender or in the shape of work to the unemployed, on the 10th of January next.

WE learn that the Hon. E. Barton, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, has nominated Mr. George Knox to fill the vacancy in the Senate of the University of Sydney caused by the retirement of the Rev. Canon Allwood.

IN accordance with our custom we publish to-day a chronicle of the principal events which have occurred during the past 12 months, the record embracing nearly every day of the year.

AT the Treasury yesterday there was a scene of great activity, and the gentlemen connected with the revenue and account branches were engaged at their duties until a very early hour this morning. Yesterday, being the last day of the year, was the day on which the revenue derivable from pastoral leases of various kinds, auctioneers' licenses, billiard licenses, and other sources of income is collected. The total amount of the money received could not be ascertained last night; it will be made known, in all probability, early next week.

A COMPARATIVE return has been prepared by the Post Office authorities showing the number of letters delivered by the letter-carriers attached to the head office, Sydney, during the three days preceding Christmas, on Christmas Day, Boxing Day, and the day after Boxing Day, respectively, for the years 1885 and 1886. The numbers were as follows:—In the year 1885: Three days before Christmas, 156,177; Christmas Day, 51,080; Boxing Day, 25,117; day after Boxing Day, 21,704. Total, 234,078. In 1886: Three days before Christmas, 161,107; Christmas Day, 59,582; Boxing Day, no delivery; the day after Boxing Day, 34,124. Total, 254,813. The figures show an increase of 20,735 letters for the Christmastide of 1886.

YESTERDAY the Marine Board gave their decision in connection with the collision between the Kellawarra and the Helen Nicoll. They found that the accident was caused by Captain Buttrey, of the Kellawarra, recklessly navigating his vessel by continuing to proceed at full speed after smoke was reported ahead, and for porting his helm, and thus throwing the Kellawarra across the bows of the Helen Nicoll, when he could see no lights, and could not tell the direction in which that vessel was proceeding. They were also of opinion that the third officer of the Helen Nicoll was guilty of default for not stopping his vessel after a light, which was reported on his starboard bow, became obscured by smoke, and its position could not be ascertained and for not calling his captain immediately the light became obscured. The Board also regretted that some of the crews of both vessels did not promptly assist their respective officers in getting boats out; and they thought that had the men done this the loss of life would not have been so great as it unfortunately was. Finally, they cited the third officer to appear before them on Tuesday next, to show cause why his certificate should not be cancelled or suspended. The Board have suspended for three months the certificate of a man named Carroll, third engineer of a Watson's Bay steamer, who was found to have been drunk on the night of the 16th ultimo.

THE Marine Board have arranged with Admiral Tryon for the removal of the moorings of H.M.S. Nelson from their present position to a point 300 feet to the south-west. This will very largely increase the width of the fairway. On Tuesday the Nelson will proceed to sea for gun practice, and the removal of the moorings will take place during her absence.

THE Board of Technical Education has engaged Mr. G. E. Webster to deliver a course of lectures in the Technical Hall on the important subject of the "Manufacture of Iron and Steel," for the benefit of candidates for the Technological Examinations of the City and Guilds of London Institute for the advancement of Technical Education, to be held in this colony in April next. Intending competitors for examination in the following subjects should notify their intention to the secretary of the Board of Technical Education at once, in order that the necessary papers may be procured from England:—1, Alkali and allied branches—(a) Salt manufacture; (b) Alkali manufacture; (c) Soap manufacture; 2, Bread-making; 3, (a) Brewing, (b) Spirit manufacture; 4, Coal-tar products; 5, Sugar manufacture; 6, Fuel; 7, Oils, Painters' Colours and Varnishes, manufacture of; 8, Oils and Fats, including candle manufacture; 9, Gas manufacture; 10, Iron and steel manufacture; 11, Paper manufacture; 12, Pottery and Porcelain manufacture; 13, Glass manufacture; 14, Dyeing—(a) Silk, (b) Wool; 15, Bleaching—dyeing and printing of calico or linen; 16, Leather—(a) Tanning Leather, (b) Boot and Shoe manufacture; 17, Photography; 18, Electro-metallurgy; 19, Textile Fabrics—(a) Manufacture of Cloth, (b) Cotton, (c) Linen, (d) Silk, and (e) Jute; 20,—(a) Lace manufacture, (b) Framework knitting; 21, Weaving and Pattern designing; 22, Electrical Engineering—(a) Telegraphy, (b) Electric Lighting and transmission of power, (c) Electrical Instrument making; 23, Metal Plate working; 24, Plumbing; 25, Silver-smithing; 26, Watch and Clock making; 27, Tools—(a) Wood-working; (b) Metal-working; 28, Mechanical Engineering; 29, Carriage-building; 30, Printing—(a) Typography, (b) Lithography, &c.; 31, Ores, raising and preparation of; 32, Mine Surveying; 33, Milling—Flour manufacture; 34, Carpentry and Joinery; 35, Brickwork and Masonry.

WITH reference to the bones found in the Wellington Caves, which have been identified by Professor Owen as being the remains of the extinct Australian lion, Mr. L. E. Harons writes to say that about September, 1881, he accompanied the late Professor Denton to the caves in question, and at that time, as reported in the Herald, the hitherto debated question as to the identity of the bones was settled by Mr. E. P. Ramsay, of the Australian Museum, who was then at work in the caves, from information gained by him during his researches.

WE have received from Messrs. Hill, Clark, and Co. a copy of their pictorial almanac, which contains, in addition to other information, the rates for the conveyance of cattle and sheep from the various railway stations on the Southern and Western lines to Homebush, as well as the sale days of produce, &c. Also, from Messrs Batson and Co., printers of Clarence-street, an exceedingly neat card almanac, which can either be hung upon the wall, or placed upon the office desk or table ready for reference.

AT the conclusion of the business in the St. Leonards Police Court on Thursday last, Mr. G. W. F. Addison, S.M., said:—"I now take the opportunity of stating that in all probability, Mr. Stephen Murphy, the C.P.S., has made his last appearance in court this morning owing to his having been promoted to a like position at Orange. I desire, on behalf of my brother magistrates and myself to mention the extreme satisfaction with which we have always viewed the manner in which Mr. Murphy has performed his duties. I may add that this opinion is amply supported by the public and the members of the legal profession. Since the establishment of this Court the proceedings have gone on without a single hitch, and I wish him every possible success in his new sphere. I sincerely trust that his successor may be as good an officer." Mr. Dargin, solicitor, shortly expressed his entire concurrence with the views of his Worship, and remarked, "Our loss will be the gain of the people at Orange." Mr. Murphy briefly and gracefully replied to the compliments passed upon him, and the Court then adjourned.

A CONSIDERABLE number of the members of the Sydney Rowing Club proceeded to the club branch on the Parramatta River on Thursday evening, the occasion being a dinner given by the members to Mr. P. J. Clark, a very old member of the club and an enthusiast in rowing, on the occasion of his proceeding in the R.M.S. Clyde to take a short holiday trip to Europe. Mr. Q. L. Deloitte occupied the chair, and Mr. C. P. Simpson the vice-chair. The chairman, in proposing the toast of the evening stated that they had met together to show their appreciation of Mr. Clark for the very many services he had rendered not only to the club but to rowing generally—for he was a man who had been identified with the club for very many years, and at all times was to the fore in leading his aid in the advance of its interests. The toast was most enthusiastically received. Mr. Clark responded in suitable terms his remarks meeting with much applause. The chairman's health was the only other toast proposed; but the remainder of a quiet and social evening was spent in songs and music, after which the party returned to town.

AT St. Andrew's Cathedral a special sermon will be preached to-morrow evening at the 7.30 service by the Primate on "The Old Year's lessons and the New Year's hopes."

A VERY largely attended midnight service was held at St. Andrew's Cathedral yesterday, to mark the incoming of 1887. A special order of hymnal and other services were arranged, and the Primate officiated. The opening hymn was the familiar one commencing, "A few more years shall roll, a few more seasons wane, and we shall be with those that rest, till Christ shall come again." The remaining portion of the service included Psalms xc., c., cxiii.; lesson, 1 Thess. v., the Creed, and the hymn "O, God, our help in ages past;" subsequent to which, before midnight, the Rev. E. C. Beck, A.K.C., gave an address. The "Te Deum Laudamus" was chanted as the new year was ushered in, and the Primate delivered a brief but an eloquent address. The hymn, "The Lord is King! Lift up your voice, O Earth, and all ye Heavens rejoice," was sung, and at about 12.25 a.m. the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Barry.

A SALE of work and fancy articles in aid of the organ fund of Christ Church, St. Laurence, was opened on Thursday afternoon in the school-room by the Rev. C. F. Garnsey. The display of articles, both of a useful and an ornamental character, is an attractive one. The bazaar was continued yesterday, and a fair amount of business was done. It will remain open to-day from 2 o'clock until 10 o'clock to-night.

THE Rev. H. T. Robjohns, B.A., agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society in New South Wales and Queensland, has, by a recent decision of the parent committee, been placed in charge of the interests of the society in New Zealand also. Mr. Robjohns' co-adjutor, the Rev. E. Wilfrid Robinson, will henceforth be agent of the society for Victoria, South Australia, and Tasmania, Mr. Robjohns, under the new arrangement, having been relieved of the eastern half of Victoria.

AT the annual election of office-bearers in connection with the Sydney Women's Prayer Union, which took place in the Temperance Hall on Thursday, the following ladies were elected:—Committee—Mesdames Avery, Griffiths, Turner Robinson, Mulholland, Beach, Arthur, Fielding, Croft, Abrams, and Peters; Mrs. C. Ward was re-elected hon. secretary, and Mrs. Chisholm hon. treasurer, for the ensuing year. It was announced that a question session would take place on January 6, 1887, and ladies were invited to send in questions for discussion.

THE mission schooner Dayspring returned from her usual cruise among the New Hebrides Group yesterday. Captain Braithwaite brings no news of importance, with the exception that the weather has been very hot, with a great deal of rain, among the islands, and that the number of French soldiers has been reduced to about 50 men, inclusive of officers, owing, it is believed, to the unhealthiness of the climate.

PURSUANT to notice a special general meeting of the shareholders of the Australian Steam Navigation Company was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the Company, in George-street. Mr. James Ewan, Chairman of the Board of Directors, presided. There was a good attendance, nearly 11,000 shares being represented at the meeting by the shareholders themselves or their proxies. The object of calling the shareholders together was to consider the advisableness of carrying into effect a resolution previously recommended by the Board of Directors, that the company be dissolved. On being put to the meeting the recommendation mentioned was carried unanimously. It will now be necessary to convene another meeting in accordance with the deed of settlement on the 17th instant for the purpose of confirming the resolution carried yesterday. It is considered fair to assume that the measure will be confirmed without opposition. In that case the company will be formally dissolved, and the fleet handed over to the Queensland Steam understand that the present clerical staff of the company will sever their connection on the 31st instant. Navigation Company on the following day.

A MASS meeting with regard to the Mount Rennie outrage, but which was neither large nor enthusiastic, was held at the Queen's statue pedestal last night. The resolution submitted by the promoter of the meeting for the commutation of the sentence passed against the prisoners under sentence of death was negatived, the feeling of the meeting being markedly opposed to the sentiments of the chairman and his following. A report will be found in another column.

WE are requested to draw the attention of dairymen and milk vendors to the terms of the Dairies Supervision Act, 50 Vic., No. 17. This Act comes into force to-day within the limit of the Metropolitan police district, and no unregistered dairyman or milk vendor can follow such calling without being liable to prosecution. Any breach of the Act may result in a fine of £20 for each offence. Any appearance of infectious disease in a dairy or a milk store must be immediately reported by the householder, occupier, or owner to the proper authorities who are—1, within the boundaries of the city of Sydney, the Municipal Council thereof; 2, within the limits of any other municipality, or portion thereof, the council thereof; 3, in case there is no municipality, then the police magistrate or the senior police officer of the district.

AT the fourth quarterly meeting of the Carrington Tent, No. 18, I.O.R., Parramatta, held on Tuesday evening, office-bearers for the current term were elected as follows:—C.R., Bro. H. Kennedy; D.R., Bro. C. F. Bailey; Secretary, Bro. J. Button; Treasurer, Bro. P. Morgan; M.S., Bro. Westcott; W.S., Bro. A. Whiteford; Levite, Bro. S. Pickard; Guardian, Bro. John Pickering; P.C.R., Bro. R. A. Withers; Auditors, Bros. G. B. Davey and Westcott; Judicial Committee, Bros. Baxter, Bewick, Pickering, Withers, Whiteford, Westcott, Button, and P. Morgan.

ON Thursday evening a meeting was held at the Carrington Hall, Woodville-road, for the purpose of formally instituting the branch of the Prospect and Sherwood Ratepayers' Association, which it was decided a week previously to form. Delegates were present from the parent branch at Sherwood Heights, and Mr. G. A. Geo occupied the chair until after the election of officers. Mr. Godding was elected president, Mr. Moloney secretary, Mr. Holmes treasurer, and Messrs. J. Taylor, Bellman, Cantwell, and Purdine were chosen a committee with power to add to their number. It was decided that the meetings of the branch should be held every Thursday evening, and the proceedings concluded with the customary votes of thanks.

SOME of the old men located in the George-street Asylum, Parramatta, gave an entertainment for the benefit of one of their comrades, in one of the wards of the institution, on Thursday evening, which passed off very successfully, the old fellows appearing to enjoy the affair very much. During the evening Mrs. Dennis, the matron superintendent of the institution, was presented with a very flattering address and a worktable, on behalf of the inmates; and her two daughters also received presents of workboxes at their hands. The address, table, and boxes were prepared on the premises by some of the inmates, and therefore additional value attaches to them. The presentation was made by the head wardsman, and Mr. James Dennis responded on behalf of the recipients.

WE have been informed that from and after this date the office of the Asylum for Infirm and Destitute Persons will be removed from 407, Pitt-street, to the premises recently occupied as Vaccine offices in King-street, and will be open on all lawful days from 11 to 12 o'clock in the mornings.

WE have received from the Rev. T. J. Curtis a letter which, in addition to some imputations it is not necessary to publish, contains the following explanation about the convening of the public meeting at the Town Hall last Wednesday evening:—"The simple facts of the case are these: All I knew when I saw the acting-Town Clerk with reference to the meeting, was that Mr. Young had referred me to Mr. Riley, and that Mr. Riley had referred me back to Mr. Young. Learning my business, Mr. Daniels volunteered to send a telegram for me to the Mayor at Katoomba. Later in the day I received Mr. Young's reply, informing me for the first time that he would not take the responsibility of convening the meeting; and still later I received the acting-Town Clerk's telegram telling me the Mayor had convened the meeting. I am innocent of the slightest duplicity or misrepresentation in this matter."

A CORRESPONDENT desires to draw the attention of the police to the disgraceful scenes enacted on and around the Camperdown Park on Sundays and on Christmas Day. He states that larrikins of the lowest class congregate there, and make use of the most filthy language. On Thursday, he says, the ranger was assaulted by one of these roughs. Outside the park gambling goes on, and conduct of the most indecent description.

A CORRESPONDENT signing himself Edw. P. writes in refutation of the opinion that the Renaissance style of architecture, with dome and cupola, is not suited to this climate. He asks if the Garden Palace was considered unsuitable, and says he always regretted to see that the Gothic style, which is suitable for cold and snowy countries, is almost the only one selected for churches in this colony.

WE have received a letter from a correspondent signing himself "Torpedo" upon the subject of the despatch of a contingent to be selected from the defence forces of the colonies to the old country, in order that Australia may be represented in the great military review, which is to take place at Aldershot, in honour of the Queen's Jubilee. The writer is of opinion that the movement would be warmly supported by the colonists, who are ever ready, he says, to attest their loyalty to the mother country. He further states that if the contingent was composed of men belonging to the different branches of the service, they may, perhaps, be attached to corps similar to their own during their stay in the great military encampment, and thus be enabled to acquire much valuable information which would be useful to Australians. With regard to the question of expense, he thinks the Government may perhaps feel disposed to bear the cost of sending the men to England, and failing this, subscribers to the Patriotic Fund may be inclined to contribute towards the cost of despatching a representative military force from these shores to the old land on such an eventful occasion.

MR. THOMAS CAMPBELL, of Jameson-street, writes as follows:—"Yesterday evening I was standing talking to a gentleman at the corner of Castlereagh and Market streets, when a boy on a grey pony dashed past, knocking down a sober, venerable-looking old man. I rushed to pick up the old gentleman, who was senseless, and bleeding from a cut on the forehead. At the same time I called to a cabman on the opposite side of the road to take the injured man to the hospital. The cabman replied, "Yes, if you pay me." I told him he was not a Christian, and he came over, when, with some assistance, the old gentleman was placed in the cab and driven off to the hospital, where I gave the cabman 1s., which was all the money I had. A man in a buggy came on the scene of the accident, but turned his head away when I appealed to him. Does it require the law of force to make us act like Christian men? There are good cabmen in this city, but the bad ones ruin their name."

A SMART seizure of spurious bank notes was made last evening by Detectives Greaves and Hinds, who, while in front of the Royal Hotel in George-street, came upon a man for whom they had lately been seeking day and night. The arrest occurred at about 9 o'clock. Upon the detectives putting some questions to the man, he became excited. They then asked him what he had about him, and he at once put his hands to his coat pockets as if with a desire to throw something away. He was then handcuffed, and, on his pockets being searched, 20 spurious one-pound notes on the Commercial Banking Company of Sydney were found in his possession. His explanation was that he had won them in a Chinese gaming-house. The notes all bore the No. 282,308. In the man's pockets was also found silver to the amount of over £4. He was taken to the Central Police Station, and was charged with having several forged notes in his possession. The accused is John Rodgers Barrett, and he gives his age at 26 years, though he looks considerably older. He will be brought before the Bench at the Central Police Court.

YESTERDAY evening Mr. Alderman Lane, captain of the Newtown Volunteer Fire Brigade, was found by some members of his family lying on the floor, at his residence, Newtown, in an insensible condition. Help was at once procured, and medical assistance called in, but up to a late hour consciousness had not been restored. Mr. Lane has recently had a large amount of labour devolving upon him in connection with the Fire Brigades Demonstration, and he has also been very active in regard to the management of other public bodies, and it is feared that his exertions have been more than his constitution could stand.

A DOMESTIC servant, named Mary Lucre, 16 years of age, residing at No. 65, Liverpool-street, had her foot badly crushed in a lift yesterday. She was taken to the Sydney Hospital, where Dr. Wentrum amputated an injured toe.

Two children named Charles Mullins and William Kitchen, each three years of age, and residing in Goulburn-street, were knocked down and run over in that thoroughfare last evening by a horse and cart. Both the little ones were immediately conveyed to the Sydney Hospital. It was found that they had received several lacerated wounds. The former also exhibited symptoms of concussion of the brain, while the latter was evidently suffering from this infliction.

AN unseemly disturbance took place last evening at the entrance in King-street to the Theatre Royal. It seems that a misunderstanding arose between a check-taker, employed at the theatre, and two men who were standing close to the entrance doors, but who had not paid for admission. In the course of a fracas which ensued the check-taker, Phillip Dwyer, was dealt a very severe blow over the left eye with a stick. Both the men with whom it is alleged he was in conflict will appear in the Water Police Court to answer a charge of assault.

AN injury of a very dangerous character was suffered yesterday afternoon at the Australian Gas Light Company's Works, situate off Kent-street, by a storeman named William Wrigley, residing at 106, Palmer-street, Woolloomooloo. A meter fell a distance of about 30 feet on to his forehead, causing a deep lacerated wound, and also fracturing the frontal bone. The man lies in a very precarious condition, and very slight hopes only are entertained of his recovery.

IN our Thursday's issue the amount of gas stated to be capable of being contained in the Mortlake gas-holder of the Australian Gaslight Company's works was 275,000 cubic feet. The figures should have been 2,750,000 cubic feet.

THE eleventh annual meeting of the Church of England Lay Readers' Association will be held at the Chapter-house, Bathurst-street, on Thursday evening next, as will be seen by advertisement elsewhere. The Primate is expected to preside.

THE Rev. T. J. Curtis is announced to deliver a lecture at the New Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street South, to-morrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, on the "Religious, Moral, Social, and Political Aspects of the Mount Rennie Outrage, and the Sentence." Mr. John Davies, C.M.G., M.L.A., is to take the chair.

THE following is the report of the Benevolent Asylum for the week ended 29th December:—Admitted, 6 women, 6 children; births, 3; discharged, 4 women, 4 children; remaining in the house, 86 women, 119 children; total, 205. Provisions distributed: 1687 loaves of bread, 1186lb. flour, 466lb. meat, 872lb. sugar, 110½lb. tea, 64lb. sago, 126lb. rice, 2lb. arrowroot, 62lb. oatmeal. Total number of men relieved, 450; fresh applications for relief, 5.

THE number of week-day visitors at the National Art Gallery for December was 11,208, an average for 26 days of 431 per day; Sunday visitors, 5016, an average for four Sundays of 1254 per day: total for the month, 16,224.

AN anonymous correspondent has sent us the sum of £2 for the benefit of the wife of Mr. John R. Jenkins.

WE have received from Mr. James Anderson, hon. treasurer of the Philharmonic Society, a letter in reply to the communication of Mr. Otton, published in our issue of yesterday. Mr. Anderson traverses the statements of Mr. Otton generally, and brings the question entirely to a personal one between himself and the other gentleman.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

HAY, FRIDAY.

Last night Mr. J. C. Neild, M.L.A., addressed a large and representative public meeting in the Academy of Music on the present political situation. The Mayor, Mr. W. Travis, presided. Mr. Neild spoke for an hour and a half, dealing principally with the financial position of the country, charging the present Government with being the cause of the deficit through extravagant expenditure since they came into office. He justified the course pursued by the Opposition, stating that they had helped rather than hindered the Government, and maintained that the voice of the country should be taken befor new taxation was enforced. He characterised the Government as most extravagant and incompetent, and also replied to the statements made by Mr. Dibbs at Wagga. A vote of thanks was passed to him by acclamation.

INTERCOLONIAL NEWS.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The Central Board of Health to-day received a telegram from the Quarantine Station to the effect that two of the Prussean's passengers were sickening for illness, namely, George Richardson, aged 16, and Clara Myers, aged 12. Dr. Snields is of opinion that these cases will turn out to be smallpox. The patients have been inoculated. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

The number of persons who arrived in Victoria by sea during November was 9005. The departures numbered 8005, the gain to the population being 1000.

Invitations have been issued to a number of gentlemen to join the Royal Commission for the Centennial Exhibition. It is expected that the names will be gazetted next week. It is understood that Colonel Sargood, Sir W. Clarke, Sir James M'Bain, and Mr. Lalor will be appointed vice-presidents. Messrs. Munro, Boisto, Bent, M.L.A., Mr. John Blyth and Mr. Balfour, M.L.C., Mr. L. L. Mount, the Mayor of Melbourne, Mr. J. Mirams, and Mr. W. Trenwith have been asked to act on the commission.

The negotiations between the Postal Department and the Telephone Exchange Company for the purchase of the business of the company have again come to a standstill owing to the demand by the company for patent rights. Mr. Derham claims the power to accept or reject any patent right. There is no probability of the dispute being settled so expeditiously as was expected.

Two thousand ounces of gold from the Tentulpa diggings were purchased by the Melbourne Mint to-day, making about 5000 ounces purchased altogether from those diggings. The gold is generally of a rough description, and slightly waterworn.

The Postmaster-General not having received intelligence from England regarding the negotiations with the Imperial authorities as to the establishment of an ocean mail service, has sent a message to Sir Graham Berry asking for particulars.

In reply to a complaint of the captain of the steamer Cheviot that his signals of distress off Cape Otway and Cape Schanck during the recent accident to the steamer were disregarded by the lighthouse keepers, the officer in charge at Cape Schanck has replied that the vessel was too far away to enable him to observe the signals, the weather being hazy at the time.

The Postal Department announces that, on and after the 1st January, the charge for 10 words sent by cable from Victoria to New Zealand will be 7s. 6d., the address and signature being charged as part of the message. Each additional word beyond 10 will be charged 10d.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, FRIDAY.

The Customs revenue collected at the port of Brisbane for the year ending to-day amounted to £352,066, being an increase of £9155 on the previous year. The collection for the past quarter was £130,296, showing a decrease of £16,000 on the corresponding period of last year.

The appointment of Mr. Clement L. Wragge as Meteorological Observer in Queensland was gazetted to-day.

A thunderstorm took place this evening, with a good deal of rain, which still continues.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, FRIDAY.

The inquest upon the late fire in Rundle-street was concluded to-day. The jury found beyond doubt that it originated through a light falling from a taper used to light the gas. The amount of insurances on the premises destroyed is £4750, but the damage is considerably in excess of that amount. A verdict was returned to the effect that the fire was accidentally caused. The jury added a rider urging the necessity for a greater pressure of water at fires. They also pointed out the desirability of lighting the gas in drapers' windows from the outside, and urged the Fire Brigades Board to get a steam fire engine. In February last the board resolved to get an engine, but they had no funds available, and neither the Government nor the corporation would help them.

Attention having been called to the imperfect condition of the hospital, the Government has approved of the expenditure of £3000 for the purpose of making alterations and improvements in the buildings. The work is to be carried on under the supervision of the the Superintendent of Public Buildings, whose report as to the necessary alterations has been approved by the board. The floors in all the wards will be taken up and relaid with jarrah, which from its hardness is not likely to harbour the germs of disease like soft wood. Ventilation and sewerage will receive special attention.

Another man is believed to be sickening for the small-pox at the Quarantine station. The two small-pox patients are progressing satisfactorily.

The incoming mail steamer Sutlej passed Cape Borda at 10 minutes to 7 this evening.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ALBURY, Friday.

T. Harris and J. Dalpuget were proceeded against by the police for a breach of the law by promoting sweeps on different racing events. Both defendants pleaded guilty, but urged ignorance of the illegality, pointing out that sweeps were commonly advertised in Sydney. The Bench said that as this statement was true, and sweeps were boldly announced in the metropolis, under the very eye of the Attorney-General, the defendants might have been raised. Both were fined 5s., but the Bench announced that future convictions would be followed by a more severe penalty.

BALLINA, Friday.

The total rainfall in this district for the year was 86 inches 41 points. The number of rainy days was 152. Rain is falling this evening, with every appearance of a heavy downpour.

BREWARRINA, Friday.

At a sale of Crown lands here on Wednesday, nine lots were offered, but only one lot found a purchaser at the upset price.

DUBBO, Friday.

An excited meeting of the Pastoral Society was held yesterday, lasting for three hours. The rules were cancelled. Great efforts are being put forward to make the next show a great success.

The total area of land selected at Dubbo on Thursday last was 3101 acres, the revenue for which amounted to £139.

The weather is hot during the day, but cool at night.

GOULBURN, Friday.

The Mayor has refused to comply with the request of the Rev. T. J. Curtis to call a meeting in Goulburn in favour of the reprieve of the Mount Rennie criminals. He says he will not do so unless he receives a requisition from the citizens.

GLEN INNES, Friday.

At the request of the Rev. Mr. Curtis, of Sydney, the Mayor convened a public meeting this afternoon to urge the reprieve of the criminals in connection with the Mount Rennie outrage. A resolution, asking for a commutation of the sentence, was moved by Mr. Stevenson, Crown lands agent, and seconded by the Rev. R. Kay, Presbyterian minister. An amendment, declining to interfere in the matter, was moved by Mr. G. B. Kelly, and seconded by Mr. J. F. Utz, J.P. The amendment was carried by a majority of three to one. The Mayor presided.

A public meeting was held this evening to protest against the intention of the Minister for Lands to remove the central Lands and Survey Offices to Armidale. The Mayor presided. Resolutions were passed showing that the removal of the offices would cost the country about £1000, and delay the land business of the district fully six months. It was also shown that the change would considerably inconvenience the communities of Glen Innes, Inverell, Tenterfield, and Emmaville, which aggregate more than double the population of the districts of Armidale and Walcha. The speakers at the meeting were Messrs. J. F. Utz, J.P., E. Grover, J.P., Alderman Sachs, and Mr. G. B. Kelly. The Mayor was requested to communicate the resolutions to the Executive Council. Much indignation is expressed here at the contemplated removal of the offices.

GRAFTON, Friday.

Mrs. J. A. Macintosh, wife of the principal of the Grafton Grammar School, died to-day, after a short illness.

A bottle has been picked up on the beach, south of the Clarence Heads, containing a paper which states that it was thrown out in July, 1883, from the ship Hyone, in latitude 18·36 south and longitude 172·32 west, on the passage from Batista to Upolu and Tongatabo. The document has been forwarded, as requested by the writer, to the German Consul at Sydney, to be sent to the German Admiralty.

The news that Captain Fraser, of the steamer Helen Nicoll, has been exonerated from all blame in the recent collision between the Kellawarra and that vessel, has caused great satisfaction here, where Captain Fraser has always been thought a very careful master.

It has been showery to-day, and there are prospects of rain to-morrow.

GUNDAGAI, Friday.

The proposed alterations in the railway time-table will affect Gundagai and other towns beyond very adversely. Correspondence posted in Sydney, say on Monday, will not reach here until Tuesday night, and will therefore not be available for business purposes till Wednesday, and as the train leaves early in the morning, replies from here would not reach Sydney till Friday. This is considered as quite absurd, and far more inconvenient than the old coaching days. The passenger traffic will also be severely affected, business men losing much valuable time in traveling. The existing arrangements appear to give general satisfaction.

William Morton, alias Jonas, charged with horse stealing and who escaped from the police at Tumut in April last, was captured at Cowra two days ago by Senior-sergeant M'Cartie, and was identified yesterday by Senior-constable M'Elligott of this town after the arrival of the train. Morton was brought up at the local Police Court and remanded for the production of evidence.

Wallace Robinson and James Cooke, of Kimo station, had a miraculous escape a few days ago. They were returning home from Tumut. They were driving a buggy, and pair, and when coming down Cookamaroo Hill a foal trotted down the hill after them. Cooke got out to drive the foal away, but it rushed in between the horses, causing them to swerve, and dash off towards a precipice. Seeing his peril, Robinson had just time to jump out, and the horses and vehicle went down the precipice. The buggy and harness were smashed to pieces, and one horse was considerably injured, the other escaping lightly.

MOUNT VICTORIA, Friday.

A severe storm, which raged at Penrith last night, levelled a large portion of the telegraph wires between Rooty Hill and Penrith. One of the iron posts was hurled on to the passenger train from Sydney, striking the engine and bringing the train to a standstill until the roombrance was removed. The line was interrupted for a few hours on the Sydney end pending repairs.

A very sudden change of temperature has been experienced to-day. The weather is now cold and wintry.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the Wallsend Police Court to-day, John Lees was charged, while in company with another man unknown, with robbing James Caines of nearly £18 and a gold chain and ring. The parties were all at the Wallsend Races on the 27th, and the prisoner, pleading poverty, was assisted by prosecutor with money. Afterwards, at dusk, the prisoner very ungratefully, with another man, followed him. The other man garotted prosecutor, while prisoner robbed him. Nearly all the property was found on the prisoner next day at Minmi. He was committed for trial.

Thomas Swindon was brought before the Court to-day, charged, together with two others not yet arrested, with assault and attempted robbery on Edward Jarrett, engine-driver, on the night of the 24th instant. The prisoner and two others rushed out of a dark passage in Hunter-street. The two caught hold of prosecutor's arm. Swindon was about to rob him, when the latter said, "I know you," and Swindon said, "Let him go," and they released him. The prisoner was remanded till Tuesday. More police protection is daily shown to be required here.

The weather appears fine for to-morrow. The Newcastle Regatta is the principal attraction.

PORT MACQUARIE, Friday.

During a severe thunderstorm last night the Presbyterian paddock was set on fire by lightning, but no damage was done.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

Holiday folk who have a penchant for racing will have a great treat to-day, for the programme set forth by Tattersall's Club, and to be discussed at Randwick, is one of the most enticing of the season. As caterers for the race-loving portion of the community, the committee of Tattersall's Club have few equals in the colonies; and nothing has been left undone to secure the success of the meeting. The book comprises six races, and the flag for the first event, the Hurdle Race, will be lowered at 1 o'clock. A pretty good field will face the light timber, and the race wears a very open appearance as between the prospects of Ravensworth, Balmoral, Whitefoot, Society, and Unique. No less than 48 still remain in for the Flying Handicap, and, on past form, it is thought that Spoilt Child, Soldier's Wind, and Raoul will require the most beating. The field for the Selling Race will be exceptionally good, and perhaps Kathleen, Kitawa, and Goldfinder will be able to work their way into the first flight. Arsenal was withdrawn from Tattersall's Cup yesterday, and last evening 25 were left on the list, so that fully a score may be saddled. With the exception of The Jewel the field is not a high-class one, and it is thought that the struggle will rest between Dagobert, The Jewel, Brown and Rose, Myall King, and Resolve, and the three first-named read best on paper. A pretty race is certain to be witnessed between Huntingtower and Aberdeen for the Lady Carrington Plate, and the Ladies' Bracelet will terminate what promises to be a great day's racing. A list of those remaining in for Tattersall's Cup will be found in another place.

Despite the fact that Friday was the night before the battle, betting in Tattersall's rooms was of a very meagre description, speculators apparently preferring to wait for post betting. A few hundreds were laid out at 100 to 12 and 14 about The Jewel. The following are the latest quotations:—3 to 1 Dagobert (off), 5 to 1 Myall King (off), 6 to 1 wanted; 7 to 1 The Jewel, 8 to 1 taken freely; 100 to 14 Resolve, 100 to 12 wanted; 100 to 12 Brown and Rose, 100 to 7 Tom Brown (taken).

Members of the A.J.C. are requested to take notice that, in order to prevent the members' stand being over-crowded to-day, officials will be placed at each entrance to whom members must exhibit their passes when called upon.

Mr. T. S. Cibborn will hold an important sale of race-horses at Fennelly's Bazaar on Tuesday, the 4th instant, commencing at 2 o'clock. The list already comprises the names of 24 thoroughbreds, the age, breeding, &c., of which will be found in our advertising columns.

The Munmell and Tuena race meetings were registered yesterday under A.J.C. rules.

NEWCASTLE JOCKEY CLUB.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club last night, Mr. C. H. Hannell tendered his resignation as president, and it was accepted with many expressions of regret.

PARRAMATTA GRAND HANDICAP.

PARRAMATTA, Friday.

The first 14 heats of the Parramatta Grand Handicap will be run on New Year's Day. Hatchens, the champion, was drawn for the 10th heat, and will positively start. The following is the draw for the first round:

First: G. H. King, A. Moss, D. Slattery. Second: A. Tunks, A. G. Wright, M. Gagin. Third: W. Risley, F. Davies, E. Lazarus. Fourth: J. R. Byrne, F. Swinfield, T. Buckley. Fifth: F. Cassel, E. S. Morris, M. J. Scanlan. Sixth: W. Garland, F. A. Smith, S. Sargeant. Seventh: S. Scandrett, J. Williams, T. J. Wall. Eighth: W. Etherington, John Folkes, P. Adams. Ninth: T. Pringle, J. King, T. Molley. Tenth: R. Hutchins, W. W. Webb, W. Smith. Eleventh: M. Andrews, R. Howe, R. Stevens. Twelfth: H. Best, J. H. Morgan, W. Kennedy. Thirteenth: T. Roberts, W. Scranimett, F. A. Brown. Fourteenth: Jackey Folkes, K. J. Allen, A. J. King.

The following are the officers appointed in connection with the handicap:—Patron, Mr. Hugh Taylor, M.P.; committee, Messrs. Frank Weston, J. Ferris, W. J. Ferris, L. Menser, W. H. Wesley, J. Ferguson, T. Hellyer, J. Garland, S. Sweeney, J. Waddell, Wm. Denshire, and G. Coates, jun.; Judge, Frank Weston; Master of the Track, Mr. Louis Menser; Timekeeper, Mr. A. Markham; Starter, Mr. W. H. Spofforth; Handicapper, W. H. Spofforth; Secretary, W. E. Moore.

CRICKET.

In our issue of Friday we stated that a correspondent had written to us pointing out that Mr. Gosnell's name should not appear in the list of players selected to represent the Sydney warehousemen in the annual cricket match against the Melbourne warehousemen, on the ground that he was not in any way connected with any wholesale warehouse in town. We have ascertained that this statement is wholly without foundation, as Mr. Gosnell is the proprietor of a large warehouse doing an extensive business in Sydney. In addition to that, he is vice-president and treasurer of the Warehousemen's Cricket Association, in which he has always taken a deep interest, and he may also be looked upon as the originator of the annual matches with the sister metropolis. Under the circumstances, this explanation is due to Mr. Gosnell.

The receipt of the news from Melbourne on Thursday relating to the intercolonial match was awaited in town with great eagerness. A crowd of several hundred people gathered around Mr. S. Cohen's sports depot, where telegrams were being posted during the day, and the intimation of the victory and Turner's feat of the "hat trick" were received with great cheering.

The Redfern Cambridge team left Sydney on Christmas Eve for Bowral, where on the following day they met and defeated the local players. Scores: Bowral, 20; Cope not out, 10. Cambridge, 108. Roberts 39, Mitell 18, and Russell 14. Russell and M'Elhinney bowled on behalf of the Sydney team, while Regatty and Rotton did similar service for Bowral. Roberts won the trophy for highest scorer offered by Mr. A. Mihell.

The Intercolonial Warehousemen's Match will commence at noon to-day on the Agricultural Society's Ground. With fine weather, a very interesting match may be expected.

Parramatta v. Manly Beach.—This match was played at Parramatta on Monday, and resulted in favour of the local team. Parramatta made 149 in their first innings, Brodie being top scorer with 57 to his credit; Copeland made 22, not out, and Neale 22. In their second innings their total reached 144, towards which T. Docker contributed 43. Manly ran up a total of 104 in their first and only innings, Aitken contributing 35, and R. Hills 19. Garlick was the most successful bowler for the local players, and Smith and Fraser did most execution for the visitors.

Parramatta v. Richmond.—This match was played at Richmond on Tuesday last, and resulted in favour of the Parramatta players, who made 118 runs in their first innings, Walford contributing 32, Copeland 24, and Brodie 22. Richmond responded with 83; Hughes 28, and Cobcroft 21. In their second innings Parramatta had lost three wickets for 107 runs when the stumps were drawn, Walford showing good form for 64 not out.

A correspondent wires as follows from Melbourne:—At the dinner at the Oriental Hotel last night an impromptu toast was proposed by Mr. A. J. Riley, Mayor of Sydney, to the health of the Sydney team, coupling with it the name of Percy Macdonald. Mr. Riley made a happy complimentary speech, and the toast was drunk with enthusiasm, and Mr. Macdonald responded in suitable terms. The Sydney players are jubilant at their success.

ALL ENGLAND v. AUSTRALIA.

[By Telegraph.]

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The following are the teams for the match All England v. Australia, which commences to-morrow:—All England: Bates, Barnes, Barlow, Briggs, Flowers, Gunn, Lohmann, Read, Scotton, Sherwin, and Shrewsbury. Australia: Blackham, Bruce, Evans, Garrett, Jarvis, Jones, M'Ilwraith, Palmer, Trumble, Trott, Spofforth.

PEDESTRIANISM.

The first heats in connection with the Parramatta Grand Handicap will be run off to-day on the Woolpack Athletic Grounds, and considering that Hatchens (champion of the world), Frank Hewitt (ex-champion of Australia), and other well-known sprinters are to take part in them, there should be a large attendance of the public. The events will be continued on Monday and Wednesday. A boys' handicap race, distance 60 yards, for boys under 16 years of age, will also take place on the track on Monday, while on Wednesday evening, after the finish of the Grand Handicap, Professor Hyland will give an exhibition of wild horse and bullock riding. Hatchens and Merchant meet on the track on the following Saturday for a 80 yards spin, and an All-Comers' Handicap, distance 60 yards, will also be run the same afternoon.

An excellent programme of sport has been arranged for to-day at Penrith. Trains will run from Sydney to that locality at 7 a.m., 9 a.m., 1 p.m., 1.45 p.m., and 1.52 p.m.; returning at 12.30, 4.20, 7.10, and 10.30 p.m.

BICYCLING.

The 100 miles road record has recently been broken in Victoria. The Argus gives the following account of it:—Messrs. Baird, Bucknall, Burston, Crawford, Fyffe, and Scales, of the Melbourne Bicycle Club, returned on Tuesday night, after an enjoyable tour through the Western district. They travelled by train on Friday evening last to Ballarat, and started their ride early on Saturday, the 14 miles to Burrumbeet being covered before breakfast. Shortly after starting again they had a novel experience for cyclists, namely, riding through a flight of locusts. The insects were travelling north to south, and extended for about 12 miles, and the swarm was so dense that objects at any distance were almost obscured. The other towns passed were Beaufort and Buangor, and the first day's ride (53 miles) ended at Ararat at 4 p.m. On Sunday the tourists were early astir, and had started before sunrise. Passing Maroona, they struck across the plains and reached Glen Thompson after a very hot ride of 37 miles, which seemed more than usually severe, as there was no drinkable water for the last 20 miles, the few small lakes near the road being quite salt. After an hour's rest they continued the riding through Dunkeld, and reached Hamilton early in the afternoon, 68 miles. On Monday, after going five miles, the captain of the party, Mr. George Burston, decided to endeavour to lower the Australian 100-mile record. He started from Hochkirch with a favourable wind, and rode to Horsham, 40 miles, in 2h. 45. He halted there for 10 minutes, and then pedalled on to Camperdown, completing the distance, 77 miles, in 6h. 15m. The greater part of this distance had been ridden against a south wind that made the time somewhat slow. On his leaving for the last stage to Larpent the wind had dropped considerably, and the pace increased to the same as in the first stage (15 miles an hour), the 23 miles only occupying 1h. 53m., making the total time, including stoppages, 8h. 9m. for 100 miles. The previous best time in Australia for the same distance was made by Hallam, of Tasmania, who covered the distance in 9h. 11m.

After Mr. Burston left, the main party rode on, via Caramut, Woolsthorpe, and Koroit to Warrnambool, arriving before dark; distance for the day, 70 miles.

On Tuesday, the last day of the tour, they made an early start, as usual, and passed Panmure, Terang, and Camperdown, and through the Stony Rises to Colac, 72 miles, and returned home by the afternoon train. The total distance travelled for the four days was 266 miles.

HIGHLAND GATHERING SPORTS.

The Highland Gathering Sports will take place to-day, on the Association Cricket Ground, commencing at 10.30 a.m. Great preparations for these sports have been made, and there is every promise of their success. The programme will comprise flat races, walking match, wrestling, pole vaulting, jumping, bicycle races, Highland and Irish dances, sword dances, &c. The well-known English bicyclists, Messrs. James and Wood, and Rolfe, the champions of Australia, have entered for the five mile bicycle race, so that a great contest may be expected. There are over 50 events on the programme, and a great gathering of the clans is looked to. The society has a strong claim upon the sympathies of the public, from the fact that during the last three years it has disbursed no less than £720 to deserving persons in needy circumstances.

N. S. W. GUN CLUB.

Yesterday out of the 37 entries no less than 34 shooters came up to the mark for the Grand Open Handicap. The birds were good but mixed, and at the end of the ninth round Messrs. S. Grant (30), J. Ellis (29), Cedar (29), and T. M. Malone (28) were ties, having killed all their birds; Messrs. G. R. Molini (29), H. Curl (28), W. Scott (28), Boomerang (25), and A. Finlayson (21) were close up with eight out of nine. In shooting off the ties Mr. Malone lost his tenth away, so he retired, and the three then left in agreed to divide the stakes, but to shoot off for wagers. Mr. S. Grant (30) retired at the twelfth, missing a rather easy pigeon. In the thirteenth round Cedar (26) lost his bird; escape, and Mr. Ellis having killed, the match was proclaimed the winner. He also in extremely good style, killing his birds very cleanly. Messrs. Cedar, S. Grant, and Malone were shooting well all through the match. A miss out sweep followed with 25 subscribers, and at the sixth round Messrs. W. C. Hill (30), H. E. Lord (29), and T. Clark (27), agreed to divide the pool. The shooting all through was carried out without a hitch of any kind, and the umpires, Messrs. W. Sanford and C. C. Skarratt, gave great satisfaction in their respective duties. Appended are the scores:—

Grand Open Handicap, open to all comers. N. S. W. Gun Club rules. 1st prize, £50; 2nd, £15; 3rd, £10. Nine birds each. Two misses, retire.

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

This theatre has secured large audiences during the week, and was well filled again last night, when Mr. Alfred Maltby's pantomime, "The Sleeping Beauty; or Harlequin Mother Goose and the Seven Champions," was received with great applause. The scenery at the Royal is very beautiful, and the stage management most admirable, everything running very smoothly, and keeping the attention of the audience always on the alert. Not only is the opening—in which the Faust Family, the Raynor Brothers, Mesdames Emma Chambers, Amy Horton, Ella Fortescue, Patty Brown, and Messrs. Greville, Farley, Leopold, and Park work very hard—a very bright one for modern pantomime, but the Harlequinade, in which the Faust Family appear, is equally good. Pantomimes and clowns have entirely changed since the days of Grimaldi. Stealing and devouring were among the leading characteristics of the clowns of the old school. Vast was the mirth occasioned by the interminable strings of black puddings, sausages, and pounds of candles, which disappeared down the throats of clown and pantaloon; but playgoers grew tired of all this, and even the red-hot poker paled after years of honourable service, so the modern clown no longer eats and pockets everything that comes in his way. Instead of the old-fashioned forms the Faust Family give extraordinary gymnastic exhibitions, indescribable tours de force, with the aid of the harlequin, columbine, clown, pantaloon, swell, and attendant sprites. The harlequinade in their hands is well worth waiting for, even by those who cannot claim to be children in years whatever they may be in heart.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.

Miss Palmer has been drawing very large houses during the week, and last night the theatre was more crowded than on any previous occasion, except the holiday nights. "My Sweetheart" is not a literary play; but that Miss Minnie Palmer does not more often appear in high-class comedy must be attributed to her great popularity as Tina. And as the French cynic Chamfort said, "Literary plays are like peacocks to whom a grain or two of corn is grudgingly thrown, and who are brought out now and then to show off their feathers, while cocks and hens and geese and turkeys are stuffing their fill because they will eventually pay." "My Sweetheart" is that delicate blending of sobs and smiles with the laughter preponderating far and away over the tears, which modern audiences have an especial predilection for. Mr. Gill has written a play somewhat resembling one of Henri Murger's "Vie de Bohem's idylls," but the French writer steeps his stories in Bohemianism simply because ridiculous situations and strong pathos are more easily evolved from questionable relations than from those sanctioned by the usages of society. The American author has provided Miss Minnie Palmer with precisely what she wanted—a play full of bustle and fun without containing anything to bring a blush to the cheek of the most prudish person, for the merriment of "My Sweetheart" is as pure and plain as bread and butter itself. Miss Palmer herself also is always pure and refined as Tina. She is a giddy, girlish romp, who laughs and cries, sings and dances, plays madcap pranks, and might possibly climb trees if occasion served; but there is no trace of suggestion in either the singing or dancing. "My Sweetheart" is exactly the kind of performance suited to all those who love innocent mirth, while, if it is not high art, it is artistic and pleasant, and laughter-provoking. The company play well up to Miss Palmer. The scenery is very pretty, and last night play and players were entirely successful in pleasing a large audience.

THE PROMENADE CONCERT.

Mr. Churchill Ottun deserves far better support from the public than has been accorded at the last two promenade concerts. It must, however, be remembered that the night has been changed, and that such of the occasions on which there have been notably small audiences, has been a Festival Eve, upon the spending of which opinions differ; and on New Year's Eve there are many who attend religious services, and the attractions of the theatres, especially great at this season to holiday-loving people, necessarily beguile many who come from the country for a short time. Whatever were the causes, the small attendance was most discouraging, not alone to the enterprising manager, but to the performers. The programme commenced with the favourite overture, "Poet and Peasant," by F. von Suppé, which is generally one of the band's happiest efforts. Last evening there was considerable unsteadiness in some of the brass instruments, and also with the clarionets. Miss O'Reilly was again included in the vocalists, and sang Millard's "When the flowing tide comes in" with much expression. Her low tones are particularly good. The high notes in this song are just beyond the singer's easy reach, and in the strain the intonation suffered a little. With a low and middle register of so good a quality, the vocalist should be careful not to choose songs where the weak part of the voice is prominent. The tendency to flatness in the high

S.S. PREUSSEN IN QUARANTINE.

We were favoured yesterday by the Health authorities with some additional particulars:—

The following three persons, who had been previously isolated, have been transferred to the Faraway, suffering from smallpox:—Mrs. Jane Palm, 19 years; Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, 33 years; and Ernest Hatton, 18 years; all third-class passengers.

The following persons having shown suspicious symptoms have been isolated in the hospital enclosure:—1, Paul Klinger, 22 years, officers' waiter; 2, Mary Bohland, 22 years, second stewardess; 3, Heinrich Hammer, 26 years, coal-trimmer; 4, Henry Granger, 27 years, third-class passenger; 5, Kate Granger, 23 years, third-class passenger; 6, Fred. Two cases of smallpox have developed at Melbourne—a boy Richardson, and a girl Myers.

Since yesterday morning six cases have been put on the Faraway direct from the healthy ground, four have been removed to her from the hospital enclosure, and 14 suspicious fresh cases have been placed under observation; that is, 19 on the Faraway and 29 in the hospital enclosure are under observation.

An Italian passenger named Portessno, 30 years, has been taken direct from the healthy ground to the Faraway. Kate Reed, seven years, has been removed to her from the observation ground; a single man, Mills, 20 years, has been taken there direct from the healthy ground; and the ship's cook (Steuer) direct from the ship. Mrs. Mercker's infant has also been sent to the Faraway. Up to last evening 24 cases had been sent there. M'Bride (a married man) and Mrs. Bennett have been placed under observation. Thirty cases are now under observation. Of 55 quarantined since the vessel's arrival, 24 have developed smallpox and been placed on the hospital ship; one case has been discharged to the healthy ground, it having turned out to be only an ephemeral fever, and the remainder are under observation, very suspicious symptoms accompanying the detention.

The worst cases on the Faraway are those of Walter Funnell, Mrs. Mercker's infant, Annie Fritz, and Mrs. Williams; and those severely attacked comprise William Mills, Juliana Deason, Ruby Kerr, Mary Fritz, and Marinius Christiensen; but several others threaten to develop serious symptoms.

Two fishermen, named Julius Cæsar, 29, a married man, and Peter Parina (?), 28, a single man, both of 21, Wyndham-street, Miller's Point, were arrested yesterday afternoon while trespassing within the Quarantine boundaries. They have been detained at the station under instructions from the health officer, and properly isolated without imposing unnecessary restriction upon them.

No tidings have been received respecting the escapee.

SUSPENSION of SIR JOHN POPE HENNESSY.

The following memorial, transmitted by members of the Mauritius Legislative Council through the Hon. Clifford Lloyd, Lieutenant-Governor and Colonial Secretary, to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, will explain the dispute which has led to the suspension of Sir John Pope Hennessy:—

"His Grace Earl Granville, K.G., her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, &c.

"Mauritius, 12th April, 1886.

"The undersigned, members of the Legislative Council, elected by the principal electoral districts of the Island of Mauritius, respectfully beg to represent to your Lordship:—

"1. That the imprevident policy of Sir John Pope Hennessy has created general discontent throughout the colony.

"2. That the maladministration of the finances of Government which, we have reason to think, threaten to be in a disastrous condition; the system of persecution adopted by his Excellency against a certain number of respectable persons holding prominent situations; the support and protection given by his Excellency to a clique both ambitious and dangerous, and having in view only their self interests, which support and protection have indirectly created dissension and even enmity among the different classes of the community, and have revived distinctions of race and colour which had well nigh disappeared; his Excellency's intervention in questions wholly belonging to ecclesiastical and judicial administrations; his Excellency's application of exaggerated ideas of philanthropy, which has resulted in relaxation of discipline in the prisons, and an increase of crime against private and public property, together with disorder among the lower classes of the community; his Excellency's complete disdain for popular opinion as manifested of late on several occasions; and his disregard of the instructions received from the Home Government, which has given occasion to repeated disapprobation and censure of his Excellency's acts and doings, since he has assumed the administration of the Island, are facts which are, or should be, thoroughly known at the Colonial Office.

"3. That the continuance of such a state of things is likely to have consequences prejudicial to the general prosperity of the colony, and eventually give rise to social disturbances deeply to be regretted.

"4. That, in those circumstances, the undersigned think it their duty respectfully to represent to the Home Government whether it would not be proper and prudent, whilst it is not yet too late, to appoint a royal commission in order to inquire into the facts specified above, and report upon the actual situation of the colony.

"And the undersigned respectfully beg to subscribe themselves your lordship's most obedient and humble servants,

"O. Beaugeard, M.D., member for Port Louis.
"G. de Coriolis, member for Port Louis.
"C. Antelme, member for Plaines Wilhelms.
"Charles Planel, member for Pamplemousses."

UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.

The following are the results of the annual examinations of students of the Sydney University, which commenced on the 12th December:—

ARTS.

First Year.—The following have passed:—J. J. C. Bradfield, S. O. Brennan, G. H. Broinowski, J. S. Carghill, H. Cox, A. J. Creagh, J. S. D'Arcy, M. M. D'Arcy-Irvine, S. T. Day, W. S. Dun, F. C. Higgins, C. L. W. Hunt, A. J. Kelynack, W. H. Kemmis, J. P. Leahy, G. H. Lukin, Harold M'Intosh, A. M'Neil, S. C. Martyn, R. J. Millard, H. Newton, W. E. V. Robson, J. M. Sands, G. P. Stanley, J. H. Stephenson, E. S. Stokes, F. Tidswell, R. A. Thompson, F. E. Wallace.

Second Year.—The following have passed:—T. K. Abbott, E. L. Artlott, A. G. H. Bode, H. E. Britten, C. A. Buchanan, N. V. Fletcher, R. R. Garran, H. Hunt, A. G. F. James, T. Kelly, G. C. King, G. H. Leibius, R. C. W. M'Donnell, D. A. M'Intyre, L. F. Meagher, F. A. Morgan, J. A. O'Keefe, W. C. Pritchard, A. E. Sendall, H. C. Vindin, W. A. Walker.

B.A. EXAMINATION.

The following have passed:—G. H. Abbott, M. H. Bruce, J. Johnston, H. B. Joseph, F. W. Langton, E. S. Littlejohn, C. Lomer, F. S. Maclean, R. K. Manning, P. J. Marks, V. B. M'Dermott, G. H. Newman, A. T. Paton, H. A. Russell, A. G. Saddington, C. A. Sutherland, S. A. Thompson, W. M. J. Walsh, R. S. Watson, and M. Wearne.

Evening students in the lower division who have passed successfully in physics: E. Connolly, L. C. Ford, James Forde, T. H. Pincombe, F. J. Sawkins, E. H. Wilkinson, A. J. P. G. Reynolds.

MEDICINE.

First Professional Medical Examination.—The following have passed:—

Chemistry.—First-class Honors: C. G. Wilson. Second-class Honors: J. A. Dick, J. M'Innes, Dagman Berne. Pass: A. M. Sheppard, C. Purser, and P. L. Townley (equal), L. C. Hollis, H. Lister, J. Morton, L. E. F. Neile, H. R. Nolan, G. Morton, E. H. Binney, F. C. S. Shaw, W. J. Shirlow.

Botany.—First-class Honours: C. G. Wilson, J. A. Dick, H. R. Nolan, and C. Purser (equal), L. E. F. Neile, P. L. Townley. Second-class Honours: J. M'Innes, Dagmar, Berne, G. Morton, L. C. Hollis, J. Morton, A. M. Sheppard. Pass: E. H. Binney, J. Shirlow, F. C. S. Shaw, H. Lister.

Zoology and Comparative Anatomy.—First-class Honours: C. G. Wilson. Second-class Honours: L. E. F. Neile, J. A. Dick, P. L. Townley, J. M'Innes, A. M. Sheppard, J. Morton, C. Purser, Dagman, Berne, L. C. Hollis, G. Morton. Pass: H. R. Nolan, W. J. Shirlow, E. H. Binney, F. C. S. Shaw, H. Lister.

Renwick Scholarship.—C. G. Wilson, also recommended for book prize, as having obtained three first class.

SECOND PROFESSIONAL MEDICAL EXAMINATION.

Anatomy.—First-class Honours: Bancroft, Perkins, Henry, Armstrong. Second-class Honours: Davidson.

Pathology.—First-class Honours: Armstrong, prize; Bancroft, Davidson, and Perkins, equal; Henry.

Physiology.—First-class Honours: Bancroft, Henry, and Perkins, equal. Second-class Honours: H. Armstrong, Davidson.

Materia Medica.—First-class Honours: Perkins, Bancroft. Second-class Honours: Henry. Pass: Armstrong, Davidson.

SCIENCE.

Second Year.—Pass: A. W. Fletcher, B.Sc. Geology and Palæontology.—Second-class Honours: W. H. Angrove. Pass (first-class): J. T. Crane, W. J. M'Kay.

Botany.—Second-class Honours: W. H. Angrove. Pass (first-class): J. T. Crane, W. J. M'Kay.

Zoology and Comparative Anatomy.—First-class Honours: W. H. Angrove. Pass (first-class): W. J. M'Kay, J. T. Crane.

Mineralogy.—First-class Honours: W. H. Angrove. Pass (first-class): W. J. M'Kay, J. T. Crane.

Recommended for the gold medal: W. H. Angrove.

The cocoa bean affords admirable nutritive qualities. In Cadbury's Cocoa Essence these are retained and concentrated, and a "genuine" (Lancet), "nutritious" (Medical Journal), and "economical" (Medical Times) article is supplied.—(Adv.)

Wells' Hair Balsam.—If gray, restores to original colour. An elegant dressing, softens and beautifies. No oil or grease. A toilet restorative. Stops hair coming out, strengthens, cleanses, heals scalp. M. Moss and Co., Sydney.—(Adv.)

THE MOUNT RENNIE OUTRAGE.

Last evening a mass meeting was held at the Queen's Statue, King-street, to consider the question of petitioning the Executive to commute the sentence of death passed upon the six prisoners now awaiting in Darlinghurst Gaol the extreme penalty of the law. The result of the meeting was to hoist its promoters with their own petard, the resolution which they had prepared being negatived.

At 8 o'clock, as the hour was tolled from the Macquarie-street immigration depot, two orators with an audience of three people met at the statue. About a quarter of an hour later some 40 or 50 people assembled, and one of the two orators, Mr. Henry Darke, who was also the chairman of the meeting, addressed those present. As time went on the number of the audience increased, and so also the number of orators, and a petition was spread out upon a case. The chairman based his opening remarks upon the aphorism that "where there is life there is hope," and with this as a text built up the following extraordinary argument. He said "The girl may live to go out again into society and be none the worse for the insults offered to her. She may go away where she is not known, and the thing may ultimately blow over." These chivalrous sentiments were to the honour of those present very indignantly received. An allusion to "these unfortunate young men" was met by the reply "You ought to be ashamed to call them men," which expression received very hearty approval. The speaker then went into a digression upon vice in high life, and brought his address to a conclusion by entering into a discussion with some one in the audience as to his pecuniary condition and solvency. The meeting quite lacked that sobriety of conduct with which so serious a question should have been treated. The feeling of those present was best ascertained by a stroll through the crowd, knots of those composing which were discussing the matter. "Had you," said one, "seen the girl as I did on the day when the rascals were placed in the police court dock, seen her shattered and trembling—a pitiful sight, indeed—you would have felt with me that lynching was too good for them." "Aye," said another, "why have laws if we do not carry them out?" and the remark was met with exclamations of approval. The next speaker was Mr. Owen, who entered upon a preliminary personal discussion with regard to the treatment he had received from the press. He denominated hanging as treatment only "fit for a dog," and was met with cries of, "A good riddance of scum," which was met with the approving "Quite right." He advocated mercy to the "unfortunate young men," and met the reply, "What mercy did they show?" and "Are you a married man?" The speaker offered the original thought "that hanging never softened a man's heart," and suggested as a substitute for the execution of the criminals that they should be compelled, "since they had wronged her, to support the girl,"—a suggestion which was met with ironical laughter. The orator's eloquence was checked by one of the audience pulling off his coat and offering to fight another person present. The speaker then went on to describe the barbarism, and the ignominy of his position. He maintained that there was a doubt as to the guilt of the prisoners. (A Voice; "No doubt at all.") An observation to the effect that no doubt the jury had done their duty, was met with cries of "Hear, hear." The speaker went on to qualify this remark by stating that they (the jury) had been so drilled in the matter that all mercy was drilled out of them, and they were compelled to bring in a verdict of guilty. This astounding remark was met with cries of "Nonsense," "Time, time." The meeting here for a time lapsed into a state of confusion and noisy discussion. Mr. Owen's remark that he thought they, "as men and Christians," ought to sympathise with these lads, was met with howls. He moved the following resolution, "It is the opinion of this meeting that mercy should be extended to the six young men now under sentence of death—1, on account of their youth; 2, on account of their previous good character; 3, on account of the jury recommending them to mercy; 4, on account of hanging for the crime of rape having been abolished in all Christian countries except New South Wales and Tasmania; 5, because there are reasonable grounds to believe that some of the men are innocent." A Mr. Jones seconded the resolution. He contended that from the point of humanitarianism it was wrong to hang the men. (No, no.) If they wanted to reform men they must spare their lives. (Laughter.) The speaker related an interview he had had with the prisoner Boyce in gaol. He said "I went into the visiting cell to see the condemned man Boyce, and I asked him, feeling that I was speaking to a dying man, "Do you feel any guilt upon your conscience as regards this crime for which you are sentenced to death?" and he said "No, I am innocent." (A voice: "I did Peace said that.") Mr. Jones stated that already they had over 2000 signatures to the petition for the commutation of the sentence.

Mr. M'Namara said that some of those who came there to laugh were perhaps unaware that they were taking part, in supporting the hanging of these men, in a great social crime. (Ironical laughter.) He contended that hanging for such crimes as these had not a deterrent effect. How was it that New South Wales stank in the nostrils of the world if the punishment of crimes of this nature by death acted as a deterrent? The trial of these men had not been carried out in the interests of law and full interests of justice. The manner in which the identification of the men was carried out was very unsatisfactory. The speaker "argued in a circle" at great length, his remarks gradually thinning the crowd, which numbered about 200 by that time, to half the number. At the conclusion of the speaker's remarks, the chairman put the resolution "that the sentence of 'these criminals, if you like to call them so,' be commuted." On being put the resolution was lost, the hands held up against it being more numerous than those in favour of it, whereupon the chairman said, "I bow to your decision. You have decided that one of the foulest possible crimes in a community be carried out." (Cries of dissent.) He said, to show the fair feeling of the promoters of the meeting, that he would call on one of those opposed to them to speak.

A Mr. Dawson said that he did not believe in capital punishment any more than others present, but, so long as it was the law of the land, it should be carried out. If they desired to amend it, let them do it in a constitutional manner. Who among the speakers that night had shown any sympathy for the girl? (Hear, hear.) Would the woman have been left alive but for the efforts of Stanley? (No, no.) He spoke at some length in support of the execution of the men, and was followed by other speakers pro and con, the number of those present gradually dwindling down to a handful.

Mr. George Long, Waverley, writing on the subject of the "extreme penalty," says "that wonderful book the New Testament, the corner-stone of our civilisation, and to which the most advanced countries owe their best distinctions, points out to us a superior rule than justice for our guidance, viz., that we should love our enemies, and even in cases calling for severe retribution, that mercy should have a decided prominence. If what is right could be arrived at without the extreme penalty in this sad case, we should, I think, be more in unison with—1st, the New Testament; 2nd, the jury which tried the case; 3rd, the laws of England; 4th, and I am quite sure with the inmost feelings of the Executive of New South Wales."

"Temora" fails to see wherein it can be proved that the Lynging of the six doomed men will act as a deterrent to other youths in any future case, should one arise. "Wilful, wicked, and deliberate murder," he continues, "should be expiated only by death, no matter in what form the murder may occur, and if an individual is mad, and commits a murder, and takes away another's life, that mad individual should suffer death for his act. The unfortunate victim of those youths' baseness is alive, and possibly would not desire the death of the destroyers of her purity; and moreover, if those culprits were asked, they might choose the very mode of death provided by law. It cannot benefit any one very much to have those prisoners hanged unless it might be the executioner. Matters will be a trifle brisk with him that eventful morning. But as to the hanging being a deterrent for the future I must beg leave to object. The present youths who are now at school in a few years will be young men. What will they know, or what will they remember, about this outrage, or what was the end of those six bad young men?" The writer concludes by begging that the lives of these six wicked, misguided, unfortunate young men may be spared, and that they may live to repent; and also, if permitted, would suggest a sentence (in its place) of 10 or 20 years' imprisonment with hard labour, combined with a flogging every two years for the first ten of their incarceration. The punishment would act as a stern reminder to the prisoners, and the flogging coming before the people, alternately, the public—youth and age alike—would be unpleasantly reminded of the soundness and justness of the sentence received by the perpetrators of the disgraceful Mount Rennie outrage. "A Husband, Father, and Brother" writes that he cannot but feel that in the eyes of the agitators who represent the crime is not so serious after all, and evidently, from their refined sense of feeling, they would rather see these poor young fellows let off scot-free than see them receive their just deserts—the gallows. The writer asks—"Have those agitators any wives, sisters, or daughters? If so, have they any regard for their honour and safety? Let any one of them picture to himself his own frame of mind had such a shocking occurrence happened to a child of his. Would he then consider hanging too severe a punishment? Would he go about pleading for mercy for the culprits? I doubt it. Why not, then, as men, worthy of the women placed under our care, can we not come forward unanimously determined to stamp out such a horrible crime—worse—ten times worse than murder? What virtuous woman would not die rather than lose her honour? What fond parent would not rather stand beside his child's grave than see her thus dishonoured? Yet while such crimes are allowed to go unpunished, or with any punishment short of death, are we not encouraging them, and making ourselves to a great degree responsible for them? Why is it that bushranging has been so effectively suppressed of late years?" There is but one answer—the dread of the gallows, and until the extreme penalty of the law is as strictly enforced for this crime as it is for murder, we shall live in constant dread of repetitions of the Mount Rennie or Waterloo affairs. The wretched cry of mitigating the sentence of these six blackguards is merely the wily way of getting in the thin end of the wedge towards a reprieve. Grant them that, and imprison them for life, in a few months, or at most a few years, we shall be asked to sign a petition on the strength of their good behaviour, &c., to have their sentences again remitted, and these ruffians turned at large. I feel disgusted at the sentimental rubbish about their youth, ignorance, heat of passion, bad companionship, and so forth. It is too childish and nonsensical, as is also the attempt made even now to prove some of them not guilty. It is too lame. They had a fair trial before a fair and impartial judge and jury, and have been found guilty. Who is able to judge of the case outside the court? Of what avail are our law courts, or judges and juries, if so soon as a verdict is given or a sentence pronounced the Governor is to be pestered with petitions and memorials for the reprieve of criminals? The miserable wretch of mercy is, perhaps, the lamest of all. What mercy did the cowardly ruffians show their unfortunate victim? What mercy did they show that brave fellow Stanley? If we want to show mercy, let us begin by showing mercy to the poor victim, and not to her destroyers. Let us show mercy to our daughters and our sisters by proving to them our determination to put down such horrible crimes, even at the risk of exterminating a race, not of men, but of fiends incarnate—contemptible cowards. The argument that the certainty of the gallows for a particular crime does not act as a deterrent is preposterous and absurd, for what but the fear of death has had the effect of suppressing bushranging in such a remarkable degree of late years? Why are murders for the sake of gain comparatively so few? The answer is found in the rope. On the other hand, why are crimes of the same character as this so frequent in this as well as in the other colonies? Surely there can be but one reply—too much leniency, too much false sympathy is shown to this class of criminals."

The Brisbane Courier, in commenting upon this case, says:—"Since the conviction of the ruffians who perpetrated the Moore Park outrage, the usual agitation has been commenced in New South Wales to obtain a remission of the capital sentence passed on the criminals. It does not seem to strike the promoters of this movement that this atrocious crime and others which by no long interval preceded it, and which are rendering the colony of New South Wales infamous, were in all probability the fruit of the mistaken clemency which spared the first initiators of these crimes. But these would-be humanitarian agitators are insensible to argument; the only one which would affect them would be the perpetration of such an outrage as the one for which those men are condemned on themselves or their families, then they would probably change their note. . . . It rests with the people of New South Wales to determine whether in their State order and the personal safety of all peaceful citizens shall be preserved by means of the law or otherwise. For that it will be preserved in some way we have no doubt. Men will not permit their women to be subjected to such outrages as those of Waterloo, Burwood, Manly Beach, and now Moore Park, without inflicting adequate punishment on the murderers, and we are only surprised that any should have been found in the colony bold enough to attempt to raise an agitation in favour of men who have committed a crime which was far more bestial and disgusting than murder. We trust that our Executive, at all events, will never encourage the transplanting of such crimes to Queensland. If they are ever perpetrated here let it be known that the criminals will find no mercy in this colony."

THE CENTENNIAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—For a long time past it has been quite an enigma to me why the people of Sydney especially have been so callous as regards the commemoration of our Centennial majority. It may be that some good reason may be given by those who know most about the subject and have most to do with it.

About the wisdom or otherwise of having any celebration at all, I leave it to other and abler heads to decide, but with your kind permission I would roughly sketch what I think is a practicable way of celebrating the 1888th year of our Lord. I have said practical, but I only mean this if there is time sufficient, and other things are agreeable and convenient.

It has been acknowledged for many years past that new Houses of Parliament are a growing necessity. Could not our able colonial architect devise a grand building, which, with little alteration after it had served as an Exhibition building, would make splendid Upper and Lower Houses of Parliament? In re annexes. When I was in Sydney awhile ago I was told that the Government were constantly renting a large number of buildings, which are used as public offices.

Could not a number of annexe structures be erected in convenient places and positions, which would afterwards do well for the offices just mentioned, and so do away with the need of rental. I would suggest that the main structure should have a dome or tower of no mean proportions, to be known as the centennial memento dome or tower. In connection with this, and as part of the building scheme, I would invoke the aid of all country municipalities, companies, and societies who were about erecting buildings. Let the Government give a little inspiration by respectfully and earnestly inviting these persons to hasten on with their buildings, and, if possible, to incorporate in miniature the special feature of dome or tower characteristic of the main buildings in the metropolis. In this way town halls, schools of art, hospitals, &c., might contribute to the general effect and benefit.

Where buildings had to be erected by the Government, such as courthouses, post-offices, &c., the same symmetry could be respected, and haste made in their completion, and on a given day all these witnesses of our hundredth birthday could be declared open and complete.

On the pediments of these buildings, or on part of the fascia, the words "Centennial Memento, 1888," would proclaim to young and old of future generations the spirit of these centennial times.

I have omitted to say that the completion of gas and water works could be made equally commemorative of our jubilee.

Of course this idea, if it deserves the name, could be supplemented in detail to almost any extent; and I believe good practical results would be gained, with but little waste of money either.

In view of the present scarcity of work, and money too, surely it is practicability that should be aimed at. Of course, as a detail of our festival, cheap trains and trams could be run; but I think the cheapness of trains should apply to trains going from Sydney as well as going to Sydney; thus our visitors from other colonies would be enabled at a small cost to see this place.

COUNTRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of the 29th instant my friend Mr. George Pile takes exception to my proposal for an intercolonial exhibition, which he thinks should be national, open to all the world. The main feature of his objection is that the public do not desire an exhibition at all, and that our manufacturers have nothing to show but antiquated machinery. For ever conservative and unchangeable, Mr. Pile continues to ride his hobby-horse, and sees only through free-trade spectacles; otherwise he could not have overlooked the exhibits at the Industrial Exhibition held at the Albert Park Building a few months back, or the reports of the great success of the colonial products at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London, or the following very pertinent remarks, contained in the letter of your London correspondent, published in the Herald of the 19th October last:—"English soap and candle makers are showing signs of alarm at the superlatively excellent and luminiferous capabilities of our colonies. There at present on view in the Colonial and Indian Exhibition 24 specimens of colonial soap, distributed as follows:—Canada, 9; Victoria, 3; Malta, 3; New South Wales, New Zealand, Queensland, and Mauritius, 2 each; and Cape of Good Hope, 1. At a meeting of the London Association of Foremen Engineers and Draughtsmen, held during the week, this fact came up for consideration, and it was debated whether it was desirable, in the commercial interests of England, for engineers to supply the colonies and foreign nations with machinery for manufacturing soap and candles. It was admitted, in the course of the discussion, that the colonies possessed such exceptional facilities for the manufacture of these aids to cleanliness and light, that in no great distance of time the new world might be supplying the old with both soap and candles. The London foremen engineers and draughtsmen decided, however, to commit themselves to the expression of an opinion that the machinists of the old world ought to boycott the colonies in order to stave off this dreadful contingency."

English manufacturers are very selfish, and will do anything to prevent our working up our own raw material. The colonies are looked upon as the property of England, to be dealt with for the benefit of the proprietors, to secure for Great Britain a commercial monopoly. Only a few years back the Manchester people were rampant with indignation when for the relief of the overburdened and starving population of India it was decided to establish local cotton factories and impose a duty on Manchester fabrics. If I have gauged the tone of the public mind correctly, there is a very pronounced opinion in favour of an Intercolonial Exhibition, but decidedly against competition with the products of low-priced European and Asiatic labour—to an exhibition where the shop element prevails, and exhibits but samples of goods for sale. I would say much more on the subject, but have no desire to enter upon the vexed question of free-trade and protection. I only desire to foster and encourage the establishment of manufactures and the promotion of industries, thus find employment for all, give the people confidence, who, having an outlook for their children, will establish homes and become law-abiding citizens, rendering us as a people more self-reliant and less dependent upon foreign aid.

Brush Farm, Dec. 31. JOHN BENNETT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of to-day there appears a letter signed by "Adam Leigh," under the above heading. Your correspondent urges strongly that we have ample time to build an exhibition wherewith to celebrate the Centenary of the colony; and, as a proof of this, he refers to the Manchester Jubilee Exhibition, which, he says, is to be completed in six months from date of contract. This, no doubt, reads very well to a certain class of people; but "Adam Leigh" must bear in mind, if we are to put up an exhibition at all, it will be a substantial building—a building that will be of service to us for years to come—not as your correspondent would have it, to be dealt with, as is intended with the Manchester Exhibition—the materials to be sold, after having served its purpose only, by the simple ceremony of the Centenary.

It is quite evident that, though there has been a great amount of correspondence on this subject, that there are still persons who cannot yet see there is not sufficient time to erect a building that would be a credit to the colony.

COMMERCIAL.

THE WOOL TRADE.

In consequence of the holidays no auctions have been held during the week. There has, however, been some private inquiry, resulting in sales at about values current when we last wrote. The sale is reported privately of about 40 bales first combing of the well-known NPB clip at 12½d., the broken, 37 bales, realising 9½d. per lb. These are the highest prices of the season in this market. It must, however, be borne in mind that exceptional care has been taken in classing and skirting, which, together with the quality of the wool, makes this clip a speciality.

Exports include three vessels, taking 11,111 bales, as under:—

Date.	Vessel.	Bales.
December 23 ..	Cloncurry s.s.	8,409
December 24 ..	Hunter s.s.	405
December 29 ..	Yarra s.s.	2,297

Receipts have been interfered with by the holidays, and amount to only 9324 bales, as against 12,236 for last week, and 6057 for corresponding week last year.

By mail we have London news to 19th November. A day or two previously Messrs. Charles Balme and Co., in their circular, write:—"A rather more confident tone has recently arisen in the wool market. A large scale of consumption and the postponement of the November series of sales till the 30th of the month, entailing a strain of another week's requirements on existing stocks in second-hands, account partially no doubt for this change of feeling, which may also be to some extent due to a more satisfactory out-turn of the late Antwerp auctions than had been expected." And from Antwerp we have had Mr. J. D. Fuhrmann's report on the public sales in that city, from 9th to 12th November as follows:—

"Our wool market has been rather quiet since August, in consequence of very reduced stocks in River Plate wool. Sales by private contract amounted to:—In August, 1353 bales River Plate, 9.2 bales Australian, 1141 bales Cape; in September, 1441 bales River Plate, 43 bales Australian, 664 bales Cape; in October, 393 bales River Plate, 214 bales Australian, 55 bales Cape, at prices showing an advance of 5 to 10 centimes on our August public sales.

"In our public sales held from 9th to 12th November, the following quantities have been Offered.	Sold.

3669 bales River Plate	1652 bales
2111 bales Montevideo	1649 bales
549 bales Australian	491 bales
1079 bales Cape	1349 bales
2200 bales Odessa	375 bales
1862 bales Spanish, Hungarian, and sundries	291 bales
12,069 bales.	6064 bales.

"Buyers were more numerous than usual, and bids very animated. Catalogues offered a good selection, and prices for Buenos-Ayres wool ruled fully in parity with last sales, and even 5 centimes higher for best qualities; Montevideo wool fetched somewhat weaker prices. Australian wool met with a lively competition, and sold at London closing rates. Odessa wools were mostly bought in, by want of competition. Prices established in the parity of 1.55@1.60 francs for a Buenos-Ayres primera of good quality at the basis of 30 per cent. yield; 1.10 francs for a Montevideo primera of good quality on the basis of 40 per cent. yield; other qualities in proportion. The course of the sales showed no material change. River Plate wool maintained opening quotations, whilst Cape wool sold at 5 per cent. below London closing rates. A relatively great proportion of sundry wools, which are not of a current sale in our market, have been taken in. Germany was the largest buyer, whilst the French operated on a smaller scale than usual. Considering the well-employed industry, and the very small stocks in the wool markets, the dullness which prevailed since closure of last London sales was not justified. The result of our sales has destroyed the fear for a decline of prices, and confidence has again returned to our article."

Kangaroo Skins.—Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, submitted a full catalogue yesterday. Good large skins sold readily, whilst medium were but in fair request. Small are still difficult of sale.

Rabbits.—Rabbits have been interfered with by the holidays, and amount to only 9324 bales, as against 12,236 for last week, and 6057 for corresponding week last year.

By mail we have London news to 19th November. A day or two previously Messrs. Charles Balme and Co., in their circular, write:—"A rather more confident tone has recently arisen in the wool market. A large scale of consumption and the postponement of the November series of sales till the 30th of the month, entailing a strain of another week's requirements on existing stocks in second-hands, account partially no doubt for this change of feeling, which may also be to some extent due to a more satisfactory out-turn of the late Antwerp auctions than had been expected." And from Antwerp we have had Mr. J. D. Fuhrmann's report on the public sales in that city, from 9th to 12th November as follows:—

"Our wool market has been rather quiet since August, in consequence of very reduced stocks in River Plate wool. GREAT EXCITEMENT IN WALES about a MARVELLOUS CURE.

LIVING SIX YEARS WITHOUT GOING TO BED.

Mr. Editor,—While spending a few days at the pleasant seaside town of Aberystwith, Cardiganshire, Wales, I heard related what seemed to me either a fabulous story or a marvellous cure.

The story was that a poor sufferer who had not been able to lie down in bed for six long years, given up to die by all the doctors, had been speedily cured by some Patent Medicine. It was related with the more implicit confidence from the circumstance, as was said, that the Vicar of Llanrystyd was familiar with the facts, and could vouch for the truth of the report.

Having a little curiosity to know how such stories grow in travelling, I took the liberty while at the village of Llanrystyd to call upon the Vicar, the Rev. T. Evans, and to inquire about this wonderful cure. Though a total stranger to him, both he and his wife most graciously entertained me in a half-hour's conversation, principally touching the case of Mr. Pugh, in which they seemed to take a deep and sympathetic interest, having been familiar with his sufferings, and now rejoiced in what seemed to them a most remarkable cure.

The Vicar remarked that he presumed his name had been connected with the report from his having mentioned the case to Mr. John Thomas, a chemist of Lianon. He said Mr. Pugh was formerly a resident of their parish, but was now living in the parish of Llanddewi.

He strongly vouched Mr. William Pugh's character as a respectable farmer and worthy of credit. I left the venerable Vicar with a livelier sense of the happy relation of a pastor and people, feeling that he was one who truly sympathised with all who are afflicted in mind, body, or estate.

On my return to Aberystwith, I was impressed with a desire to see Mr. Pugh, whose reputation stood so high. His farm is called Penmon-Mawr, signifying "above the dingle," situated near the summit of a smooth round hill, overlooking a beautiful valley, in which is situated the lovely ivy-mantled Church of Llanddewi. I found Mr. Pugh, apparently about 40 years old, of medium height, rather slight, with a pleasant and intelligent face. I told him I had heard of his great affliction, and of his remarkable and almost miraculous relief, and that I had come to learn from his own lips what there was of truth in the reports.

Mr. Pugh remarked that his neighbours had taken a kindly and sympathetic interest in his case for many years, but of late their interest had been greatly awakened by a happy change in his condition. What you report as having heard abroad, said he, is substantially true, with one exception. I never understood that my case was ever given up as hopeless by any physician. I have been treated by several doctors hereabouts, as good as any in Wales, but unfortunately no prescription of theirs ever brought the desired relief.

Fifteen years ago, he said, I first became conscious of a sour and deranged stomach and loss of appetite, which the doctors told me was dyspepsia. What food I could hold in my stomach seemed to do me no good, and was often thrown up with pains and retching. This was followed after a time with a hoarseness and a raw soreness of the throat, which the doctors called bronchitis, and I was treated for that, but with little success. Then came shortness of breath and a sense of suffocation, especially at night, with clammy sweat, and I would have to get out of bed and sometimes open a door or window in winter weather to fill my lungs with the cold air.

About six years ago I became so bad that I could not sleep in bed, but had to take my quiet rest and dreamy sleep sitting in an armchair. My affliction seemed to be working downward into my bowels as well as upwards into my lungs and throat. In the violent coughing spasms, which grew more frequent, my abdomen would expand and collapse, and at times it would seem that I should suffocate. All this time I was reduced in strength, so that I could perform no hard labour; and my spirits were consequently much depressed.

Early in this last spring I had a still more severe spasmodic attack, and my family and neighbours became alarmed, believing that certainly I would not survive, when a neighbour, who had some knowledge, or had heard of the medicine, sent to Aberystwith by the driver of the Omnibus Post, some seven miles distant, and fetched a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup.

This medicine they administered to me according to the directions, when, to their surprise and delight no less than my own, the spasm ceased. I became at ease, and my stomach was calmed. My bowels were moved so by a gentle cathartic, and I felt a sense of quiet comfort all through such as I had not before realised in many years. I could walk around the house and breathe comfortably in a few hours after I had taken the medicine. I have continued to take the medicine daily now for nine thing over two months, and I can lay down and sleep sweetly at nights, and have not since had a recurrence of these terrible spasms and sweatings. I have been so long broken down and reduced in my whole system that I have not tried to perform any very hard outdoor labour, deeming it best to be prudent lest by over-exertion I may do myself injury before my strength is fully restored. I feel that my stomach and bowels have been and are being thoroughly renovated and renewed by the medicine. In fact, I feel like a new man.

I have been much congratulated by my neighbours, especially by the good Vicar of Llanrystyd, who, with his sympathetic wife, have come three miles to shed tears of joy on my recovery.

I bade Mr. Pugh good-bye, happy that even one at least among thousands had found a remedy for an aggravating disease.

Believing this remarkable case of Dyspeptic Asthma should be known to the public, I beg to submit the above facts as they are related to me. F. T. W.

AMERICAN HOP BITTERS ARE THE PUREST and BEST BITTERS EVER MADE.

They are compounded from Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake, and Dandelion—the oldest, best, and most valuable medicines in the world—and contain all the best and most curative properties of all other medicines, being the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health-restoring Agent on earth.

THEY GIVE NEW LIFE AND VIGOUR TO THE AGED AND INFIRM.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an aperitiser, tonic, and mild stimulant, American Co.'s Hop Bitters are invaluable, being highly curative, tonic, and stimulating, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is, USE HOP BITTERS. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, USE HOP BITTERS AT ONCE. It may save your life. Hundreds have been saved by so doing. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

PROSECUTE THE SWINDLERS.

If when you call for American Hop Bitters (see "green twig of Hops on the white label and Dr. Soule's name blown in the bottle) the vendor hands out anything but American Hop Bitters, refuse it, and shun that vendor as you would a viper; and if he has taken your money for anything else indict him for the fraud, and sue him for damages for the swindle, and we will pay you liberally for the conviction.

4, O'Connell-street, Sydney, January 1, 1887.

EXPIRATION OF PARTNERSHIP, LATE INGLIS, BROWN, and CO.

Mr. JAMES INGLIS, having secured new and commodious premises, No. 6, Dean's-place, opposite Mercantile Bank, George-street (next door to Virgoe, Son, and Chapman's), will carry on business as Tea, East India, and General Merchants, under the style of JAMES INGLIS and CO., 6, Dean's-place.

Sydney, January 1, 1887.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

Mrs. GMER begs to inform the ladies of Summer Hill that she has removed her business from the corner of Lackey-street to the first house in Morris-street (next door to the chemist's). She thanks them for their past support, and hopes for their future favours.

REMOVAL.—JOSEPH CARROLL, City Auditor and Public Accountant, from Telopia-st. to 318, Bourke-st., S. H.

FORD, ADAMS, and CO., Custom House Agents, REMOVED from Custom House Yard to WOOLBROKERS' CHAMBERS, east side of Custom House.

COOKING STOVES.

The Younger Cooking Stove is the best and strongest ever used in the colony. We are daily receiving testimonials from all parts informing us that they are the best and cheapest Stoves they ever used. They are suitable for either wood or coal, and require no setting. We have all sizes in stock, from 24 to 34 inches long; the latter size will cook for 100 people. Duplicate parts on hand. Send for reduced price lists and testimonials.

GEORGE FLETCHER and SON, Ironfounders and Ironmongers, Oxford street, Sydney.

TO ECONOMICAL HOUSEWIVES.—Your grocer can purchase interior Soaps to a hundredweight less than he can buy Allen's No. 1 Crown Soap, and he charges for them the same price per bar. He reaps the benefit, and you pay for it. You lose 8s per box, your clothes last no time, and their colours are destroyed by the adulteration. To avoid all this, see that your bar of soap is stamped "ALLEN'S No. 1 Crown."

MONDAY, the 17th DAY of JANUARY, 1887, at 11 o'clock (IN LOTS), the undermentioned

EXTENSIVE and VALUABLE

CITY, SUBURBAN, and COUNTRY PROPERTIES, belonging to the above estate.

CITY.

LOT 1.

IN a CENTRAL, CONVENIENT MERCANTILE POSITION, near

CIRCULAR QUAY and PITT-STREET NORTH,

EXTENSIVE and VALUABLE STORES, QUEEN'S-PLACE,

114½ FEET frontage thereto,

with varying depth lines, and an entrance from

BRIDGE-STREET by a lane.

These STORES are substantially built of brick on stone foundations, having splendid BASEMENT or CELLARAGE floor, and THREE and FIVE STORIES OVER, giving in one of the BEST POSITIONS in the CITY for a WHOLESALE TRADE, so convenient to the trading discharging WHARVES of the CITY, and at the same time handy for despatching by STEAMER or RAIL.

VAST STORAGE ACCOMMODATION

The purchase of so suitable business premises in this position should prove a good investment either for use by a MERCHANT or to a CAPITALIST, as, in course of a very few years, main street premises will not be obtainable, or only at enormous rentals, while here is CENTRALITY, close to EXCHANGE, WHARVES, BANKS, and the very heart of COMMERCIAL ACTIVITY.

LOT 2.

It has a frontage of 42 feet to JONES-STREET, EXTENDING THROUGH BURLINSON-STREET, to which it has also 42 feet frontage, with a 12-feet lane on its WESTERN boundary. On it is a TERRACE of 3 houses known as MARGARET-TERRACE, built of brick (cemented), iron roof, with balcony in front, and containing each 4 rooms and kitchen.

LOT 3.

Block of LEASEHOLD LAND, being allotment No. 22 of the subdivision of the ULTIMO ESTATE, having 25 feet frontage to the east side of HARRIS-STREET, with about 17 years of the lease to run, at a yearly rent of £8, together with a corrugated iron and wood building, now used as a cabinetmaker's shop.

SUBURBAN.

LOT 4.

BARNSHOT ESTATE, CANTERBURY,

splendid position on COOK'S RIVER, opposite CROYDON,

100 ACRES GRANT,

with capital river and main road frontages; a small part is occupied by BRICK FACTORIES, another part by MARKET GARDENERS. The whole of the large residue is well adapted for PROFITABLE SUBDIVISION, being only a short distance from CROYDON, on the proposed railway route, St. PETER'S to LIVERPOOL.

LOT 5.—BALMAIN.

Block of land, with a frontage of about 48 feet to the IRON COVE-ROAD, at the corner of FERDINANDO-STREET, to which the depth is about 90 feet, together with two COTTAGES THEREON. They are of weatherboards, on stone foundations, shingle and iron roof, containing each hall, 4 rooms, bathroom, kitchen, and small washhouse, with verandah front and rear.

LOT 6.

CAPITAL BUSINESS Site on the main thoroughfare of the NORTH SHORE—

Block of Land in the MILSON'S POINT-ROAD, nearly opposite PALMER-STREET, with a frontage of about 40 feet to the first-named street, by a depth of about 120 feet, extending through to LITTLE FITZROY-STREET, together with the buildings thereon, consisting of 2 weatherboard Shops on the MILSON'S POINT-ROAD frontage, and 3 Weatherboard Cottages in LITTLE FITZROY-STREET, each containing 3 rooms and kitchen.

LOT 7.

BLOCK of LAND at the corner of the MILSON'S POINT-ROAD, GLEN and TERRACE STREETS. It contains an area of 2 ROODS and 34 PERCHES, has 2 chains frontage to GLEN-STREET, coming up to a point on the MILSON'S POINT-ROAD at the corner of TERRACE-STREET, down which last-named street it extends for some 210 feet, as far as the junction of UNDERCLIFFE-TERRACE, thence to the waters of LAVENDER BAY, to which it has a frontage of about 98 feet. On it are four Cottages, chiefly built of wood, and on the water frontage is a small boat-building shed and wharf.

ASHFIELD.

LOT 8.

Splendid Residence on Main Parramatta-road, close to FIVE DOCK-ROAD. It is massively built, and full of comfort and family convenience. The grounds are about 12 acres in extent with large frontages to main road and street overlooking ASHFIELD RECREATION GROUNDS, and a well-arranged subdivision could be made to MEET POPULAR DEMANDS.

LOT 9.

CROYDON LANDS.

Being Allotment No. 18 of subdivision plan of the Greenhills Estate, containing 25¼ perches, having 50 feet frontage to Greenhills-street.

Allotment No. 27 of same subdivision, containing 27¼ perches, having 55 feet frontage to George's River Old-road.

Allotment No. 38 ditto containing 36¼ perches, and having 48 feet 1 inch frontage to Greenhills-street.

Within five minutes' walk of THE RAILWAY STATION, THE POST AND TELEGRAPH OFFICE, and just beyond The IMPERIAL HOTEL.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on the Ground, on SATURDAY, the 22nd DAY of JANUARY, 1887, at 3 O'CLOCK p.m.,

The above

VALUABLE BLOCK OF LAND,

containing an area of 40 acres, situated at the junction of the GREAT WESTERN and

which is now being liberally subdivided by the well known Surveyors, Messrs. ATCHISON and SCHLEICHER into VILLA and COTTAGE SITES, commanding MAGNIFICENT VIEWS of KANIMBULA VALLEY, and in The immediate neighbourhood of the many varied and interesting sights of the BLUE MOUNTAINS.

Three trains to and from Sydney each day, and five on Saturday, run most conveniently for business men, and to any one in search of a mountain home we would recommend their waiting for this, the Premier Sale of the season. Within a few months visitors to MOUNT VICTORIA will be able to drive the whole of the way to the far famed FISH RIVER CAVES (now called JENOLAN), and every convenience for their inspection, viz., horses, buggies, &c., can always be had from the well-known IMPERIAL HOTEL, the grounds of which nearly adjoin the property now in course of subdivision for sale.

TITLE TORRENS'.

A SPECIAL TRAIN will leave REDFERN RAILWAY STATION on the day of sale, due notice of which as to hour of starting, &c., will be given in a future issue.

PLAN ON VIEW AT THE ROOMS.

LITHOS of which are now in course of preparation, and when ready will be obtainable at the Rooms.

NEW ISSUE OF SHARES
AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL INVESTMENT and BUILDING COMPANY, Limited.

The rapid growth of the Company's Business has induced the Directors to issue 30,000 NEW SHARES at 70s per share, and as only 10,000 of these are reserved for the Sydney Market, it is necessary that speedy application be made by those intending to take up shares.
The present issue of shares will return from the first, £3 11s 3d per cent., with every prospect of still larger dividends in the future.
The New Issue will increase the Paid-up Capital from £20,000 to £40,000, and the Reserve from £40,000 to £90,000.
This Reserve will be larger than that of any other Building Company in the Colony, and as a consequence of the large Reserve, the cost of money to this Company will be less than to any other Building Company.
The total Receipts during the year ending December 31, 1885, amounted to £336,818 4s 11d, and the sum of £283,221 15s 7d was received on deposit; larger than the amount received by any other Building Company in the Colony.
The year just closing shows an increase in the receipts of one third over the amount received last year, and this in the face of the wide-spread depression in trade.
The fact that this Company has always paid the highest rate of Dividend, and at the same time carried substantial sums to Reserve every year is a guarantee that in the future the same good results may be anticipated.
The Directors have every confidence in recommending these Shares as the soundest investment in the market.

NEW ISSUE OF SHARES.

This Society has recently made great and rapid progress, as will be seen by the following extract from the last annual report and balance-sheet (June 30, 1886):—The deposits have increased from £12,018 8s 7d on June 30, 1885, to £45,811 18s 3d on June 30, 1886; the amount of balances due by borrowers and land purchasers has increased in the same period from £26,688 18s 3d to £66,654 15s 1d, while the total receipts from all sources show the marvellous increase of upwards of £100,000 over the previous year. The balance to the credit of Profit and Loss Account of June 30th last was £10,784 18s. 4d. Out of this the directors carried the sum of £4479 to the Reserve Fund, which now stands at £10,000. The wonderful increase in the society's business, however, brought with it the necessity for an increase of the capital, which, when compared with the magnitude of the society's operations, was deemed to be too small. The authorised capital of the society is £50,000, in shares of £25 each, of which only £20,000 is subscribed for. The directors now consider it advisable to place upon the market the unsubscribed balance of the authorised capital, viz., £30,000, and upon terms which should ensure their being speedily taken up. The existing paid-up £25 shares have been sold in the open market at £32 10s each—that is, at a premium of £7 10s per share. In consideration, however, of the fact that it not intended to call up more than half the amount of the new shares at present, the board have decided to offer them at only £2 10s per share premium; but should it be necessary in the future to call up the balance, the purchasers will not be required to pay any additional premium. The new issue (which will be called Series No. 4) will receive the same rate of dividend as the paid-up shares, which for the year ending June 30, 1886, was 14 per cent. Subscribers to this new issue will also be allowed the privilege of depositing the amount required to make the shares fully paid up at 1 per cent. in advance of the highest current fixed deposit rate. That is to say, a person wishing to take up eight shares may, upon payment of the premium of £2 10s per share, pay the sum of £160 down, upon which he would receive, according to last year's rate of dividend 14 per cent. per annum; and the balance—viz., £160—he would be allowed to deposit, according to the current rates for fixed deposits, at 8 per cent. per annum. The total interest he would thus receive on his £320, plus the premium, would be £73, or a little over 19 per cent. per annum. But it is not compulsory for the whole of the £12 10s per share to be paid down at once. Upon payment of the premium of £2 10s per share as a deposit, an investor may secure the number of shares he wishes to take up, and pay the amount in calls of 5s per share per month, with the right to pay the whole of the £12 10s at any time."
Copies of last report and balance sheet, application forms for new shares, and all other information respecting the Society may be obtained on application at the office, 95, Market-street.
